INTRODUCTION

History

A complete and accurate registration of all vital events in Canada is the main objective of a series of collaborative agreements between Canada, the provinces and territories. Since 1969, data relating to divorce have been provided to Statistics Canada by the Central Registry of Divorce Proceedings in the Department of Justice. The target universe for divorce statistics consists of all divorces processed in Canada.

Pursuant to the Divorce Act in 1968, a Central Registry of Divorce Proceedings (CRDP) was established within the Department of Justice Canada. The CRDP was originally set up as a mechanism to detect the existence of two divorce applications involving the same parties in different provincial and territorial jurisdictions involving the same couple. Duplication of divorce applications generally occurs in three situations: (1) a person filed an earlier divorce application and failed to proceed with it or filed a discontinuance; (2) the parties each desire carriage of the action and each files a divorce application; or (3) the parties have lost touch with each other, and one party is unaware that the other party has filed for or already obtained a divorce judgment. The CRDP assembles, sorts, and searches out the records of applications for divorce filed anywhere in Canada in order to identify such cases.

Purpose

Divorce statistics are important for both administrative and demographic reasons. For example, government departments and embassies require confirmation of the marital status of a person for pension and immigration purposes. Divorce data are important evidence for litigation involving fatal accidents, and for the administration of social programs. Divorce statistics are also used in special studies that analyze divorce as a social phenomenon, for the analysis of fertility data, and for the development of household, family and population estimates and projections.

The data elements in the divorce file include information on the age of husband and wife at the time of the marriage, date of husband's birth, date of wife's birth, marital status just prior to marriage, province and territory of divorce decree, age of husband and wife at time of divorce, duration of marriage, grounds for divorce, person making the divorce application, reasons for marriage breakdown, dependent children, child custody arrangements.

INTRODUCTION

Historique

L'enregistrement complet et précis des actes de l'état civil au Canada est le principal but d'une série d'ententes de collaboration conclues entre le Canada, les provinces et territoires. Depuis 1969, les données sur le divorce sont fournies à Statistique Canada par le Bureau d'enregistrement des actions en divorce du ministère de la Justice. L'univers visé par la statistique du divorce est l'ensemble des cas de divorce traités au Canada.

Conformément à la Loi sur le divorce de 1968, on a créé un Bureau d'enregistrement des actions en divorce (BEAD) au sein du ministère de la Justice du Canada. Le BEAD avait été établi à l'origine comme mécanisme d'information destiné aux tribunaux et aux parties présentant des demandes en divorce concernant le même mariage dans des provinces ou territoires différents. Les demandes de divorce présentées en double se produisent généralement en trois circonstances : 1) une personne a déjà introduit une action en divorce dans le passé mais n'a pas donné suite à son action ou s'est désistée; 2) les deux parties désirent que l'action soit poursuivie et chacune présente une demande de divorce; ou 3) les parties se sont perdues de vue et une des parties ignore que l'autre a fait une demande de divorce ou a obtenu le divorce. Le BEAD réunit, trie et consulte les dossiers de demandes en divorce déposées n'importe où au Canada afin de découvrir ces cas.

Objectifs

La statistique du divorce est essentielle pour des raisons administratives et démographiques. Par exemple, les ministères et les ambassades ont besoin d'avoir confirmation de l'état matrimonial d'une personne à des fins d'immigration et de pension. Les données sur le divorce sont des preuves importantes pour les litiges concernant les accidents mortels ou pour l'administration des programmes sociaux. La statistique du divorce sert également aux études spéciales ayant pour objet l'analyse du divorce comme phénomène social, à l'analyse des données sur la fécondité et, enfin, à l'élaboration des estimations et des projections relatives aux ménages, à la famille et à la population.

Les éléments d'information du dossier de divorce comprennent l'âge du mari et de l'épouse au mariage, la date de naissance du mari et de l'épouse, l'état matrimonial au moment précédant le mariage, la province ou le territoire du jugement de divorce, l'âge du mari et de l'épouse au moment du divorce, la durée du mariage, les motifs de divorce, la personne qui exerce l'action en divorce, les raisons de l'échec du mariage, les enfants à charge, les ententes relatives à la garde des enfants.

METHODOLOGY

Data Collection

Information relating to divorces in each of the provinces and territories of Canada is collected by the CRDP of the Department of Justice Canada. The impetus for a central divorce registry arose from the need to eliminate duplicate divorce proceedings. At present, intraprovincial or inter-territorial duplications arise in approximately 5 percent of all applications, and interprovincial or inter-territorial duplications arise in 0.5 percent of applications.

Annually, the CRDP sends machine-readable data relating to cases of completed divorce to the Health Statistics Division at Statistics Canada. Statistics Canada processes the data to produce a set of standard tabulations.

MÉTHODOLOGIE

Collecte des données

Des renseignements relatifs aux cas de divorce enregistrés dans les provinces et les territoires du Canada sont réunis par le BEAD du ministère de la Justice du Canada. La nécessité d'éliminer les demandes en divorce en double a motivé la création d'un bureau central des divorces. À l'heure actuelle, les demandes en divorce en double à l'intérieur de la même province ou du même territoire se produisent dans environ 5% des cas et celles dans des provinces ou territoires différents, dans 0.5% des cas.

Tous les ans, le BEAD envoie, sur support exploitable par une machine, des données concernant les divorces prononcés à la Division des statistiques sur la santé de Statistique Canada. Statistique Canada traite alors les données pour produire une série de totalisations normalisées.

Note that completed divorces (divorces granted) in a given year do not necessarily relate to legal actions filed in the same year.

Population Counts Used in Calculating Rates

In 1993, Statistics Canada introduced a new series of population estimates that include non-permanent residents and adjustments for net census undercoverage. The series for provinces and territories comprises annual population estimates by age (single years), sex, and marital status, beginning with 1971. Non-permanent residents are persons claiming refugee status, persons holding a student authorization, persons holding an employment authorization, persons holding a minister's permit, and all non-Canadian-born dependents of the above individuals. Net census undercoverage is the difference between census undercoverage and census overcoverage. The former refers to persons not enumerated in the census but who were part of the census universe; the latter refers to persons either enumerated more than once or enumerated but not part of the census universe.

The divorce rates for 1993 to 1995 were obtained from the publication Divorces, 1995 (Catalogue no. 84-213). These rates were calculated using the population estimates available at the time of publication. Because the population estimates have since been revised, the rates, if they were calculated again, would be somewhat different.

The divorce rates for 1996 and 1997 were calculated using the newer population estimates provided in Appendices 1, 2, 3 and 4.

Change in Grounds for Divorce over Time

Under the Divorce Act of 1985, the grounds for divorce changed. Marriage breakdown became the only grounds for divorce, and the evidence for marriage breakdown was reduced to separation for not less than one year, adultery, physical cruelty, or mental cruelty.

In cases where couples file a joint application for divorce, the only valid category is separation for not less than one year. The other three reasons - adultery, physical cruelty, and mental cruelty - are only legally valid when one spouse brings a divorce proceeding against the other spouse.

Il faut prendre note que les divorces prononcés (divorces consentis) au cours d'une année donnée ne correspondent pas nécessairement aux actions en divorce intentées cette même année.

Chiffres de population servant au calcul des taux

En 1993, Statistique Canada a commencé à utiliser une nouvelle série d'estimations de la population qui tient compte des résidents non permanents et des rajustements réalisés pour le sous-dénombrement net du recensement. Les séries pour les provinces et les territoires comprennent les estimations annuelles de la population selon l'âge (âge pris an par an), le sexe et l'état matrimonial, à partir de 1971. Les résidents non permanents sont des personnes qui revendiquent le statut de réfugié, des titulaires d'un permis de séjour pour étudiant, des titulaires d'un permis de travail, des détenteurs d'un permis ministériel et toute personne à charge née à l'étranger des personnes susmentionnées. Le sous-dénombrement net du recensement correspond à la différence entre le sous-dénombrement du recensement et le surdénombrement du recensement. Le premier terme englobe les personnes non recensées faisant partie de l'univers du recensement alors que le second fait référence aux personnes qui sont dénombrées plus d'une fois ou qui sont dénombrées alors qu'elles ne font pas partie de l'univers du recensement.

Les taux de divortialité pour les années 1993 à 1995 proviennent du Divorces, 1995 (Item 84-213 au catalogue). Les taux sont fondés sur les estimations de la population disponibles lors de cette publication. Des ajustements au niveau des estimations de la population ayant été réalisés, ces taux, s'ils étaient recalculés de nouveau, seraient légèrement différents.

Les taux de divortialité pour les années 1996 et 1997 sont fondés sur les plus récentes estimations de la population présentées dans les appendices 1, 2, 3 et 4.

Changement des motifs de divorce dans le temps

Avec l'entrée en vigueur de la Loi sur le divorce de 1985, les motifs de divorce ont changé. L'échec du mariage est devenu le seul motif de divorce et les preuves de l'échec ont été réduites aux suivantes : séparation depuis au moins un an, adultère, cruauté physique ou cruauté mentale.

Dans les cas où les conjoints font une demande commune de divorce, la seule catégorie valide est la séparation depuis au moins un an. Les trois autres raisons - adultère, cruauté physique et cruauté mentale - sont valides légalement uniquement lorsqu'une personne exerce une action en divorce contre son conjoint.

Demandant

Dans la Loi sur le divorce de 1985, le demandant est la ou les personnes (mari, femme, ou les deux) qui exerce une action en divorce. Les demandes communes font référence à la situation où les deux conjoints présentent ensemble la demande. (Voir également Requérant et répondant.)

État matrimonial au moment précédant le mariage

L'état matrimonial au moment précédant le mariage fait référence à l'état matrimonial de la personne immédiatement avant le mariage concerné par le jugement en divorce. Au moment du mariage, la personne peut être célibataire (jamais mariée), veuve ou divorcée.

Mariage

Union légitime entre deux personnes de sexe opposé. Les unions de fait sont exclues.

Mean

The arithmetic mean (average). A measure of central tendency: the sum of the observations divided by the number of observations.

Median

The median is another measure of central tendency. It is the middle value in a set of ordered numbers. In the case of an even number of observations, the median is the average of the two middle values.

Petitioner and Respondent

In the Divorce Act of 1968 (which preceded the Divorce Act of 1985), the petitioner is the person (husband or wife) who petitioned Parliament for a divorce. The petitioner's spouse is the respondent. (See also Applicant.)

Population

Persons whose usual place of residence is somewhere in Canada, including non-permanent residents. (See Population Counts Used in Calculating Rates.)

Rates

Age-sex-specific Divorce Rate

Number of divorces per 100,000 males or females of the same age.

Age-sex-specific Marital Divorce Rate

Number of divorces per 1,000 legally married males or females of the same age.

Total Divorce Rate (TDR)

The sum of duration-specific divorce rates. In this publication, the summation goes back to 30 years, that is, it accumulates divorce rates pertaining to marriages having taken place between 1968 and 1997. This measure is expressed as the proportion of married couples who are expected to divorce before their 30th anniversary, given the duration-specific divorce rates for 1997. For example, the 1997 Quebec TDR of 448 per 1,000 marriages indicates that 44.8% of marriages performed in Quebec between 1966 and 1997 have already ended or were expected to end in divorce before the 30th anniversary.

Moyenne

Il s'agit de la moyenne arithmétique, qui est une mesure d'une tendance centrale. Elle correspond à la somme des observations divisée par le nombre d'observations.

Médiane

La médiane est une autre mesure de tendance centrale. Elle permet de déterminer la valeur dans une distribution de fréquence qui partage en deux parties égales les observations.

Requérant et répondant

Dans la Loi sur le divorce de 1968 (qui a précédé la Loi sur le divorce de 1985), une personne (mari ou femme) désirant divorcer portait sa demande en divorce devant le parlement. Le conjoint du requérant était le répondant. (Voir aussi Demandant.)

Population

Personnes dont le lieu habituel de résidence est un endroit au Canada, y compris des résidents non permanents. (Voir Chiffres de population servant au calcul des taux.)

Taux

Taux de divortialité par âge et par sexe

Nombre de divorces pour 100,000 hommes ou femmes du même âge.

Taux de divortialité conjugal par âge et par sexe

Nombre de divorces pour 1,000 hommes ou femmes mariés légalement du même âge.

Indice synthétique de divortialité (ISD)

Somme des taux de divortialité selon la durée du mariage. Dans cette publication, la sommation est faite pour les 30 dernières années de mariage cumulant ainsi les taux de divortialité se rapportant aux mariages accordés entre 1968 et 1997. Cette mesure exprime la proportion de couples mariés qui sont susceptibles de connaître un divorce avant leur 30^e anniversaire de mariage. Par exemple, le ISD en 1997 au Québec de 448 pour 1,000 mariages indique que 44.8% des mariages accordés au Québec entre 1966 et 1997 sont ou sont susceptibles d'être soldés par un divorce avant leur 30^e anniversaire.

DATA PROCESSING

Before receipt by Statistics Canada: After the divorce process has been finalized, the courts in each province and territory send information to the CRDP for entry into the central data base.

At Statistics Canada: Upon receipt of the data file from the CRDP, Statistics Canada carries out a series of consistency checks on the file to assess the quality of the data. After liaison with the CRDP to check out any inconsistencies, a series of standard tabulations is prepared.

DATA QUALITY

Detailed tabulations on divorce have been available only since 1969, and these have been presented in annual reports since 1972. Counts of divorces in this publication represent the "decrees absolute" granted and do not include any other form of marital dissolution, such as, for example, separation. To some extent, the number of divorce decrees granted in any one year depends on such factors as the number of petitions or applications filed, the number of centres hearing divorce petitions, and the time interval necessary for a petition to end in a final decree. The variations could be appreciable at a provincial or territorial level. This aspect should be taken into account when studying the relative levels and trends from year to year.

Divorce rates do not necessarily provide an accurate index of marital dissolution, as divorce rates are based on marriages that have been legally contracted. Consensual unions or common law relationships comprise a significant proportion of faily unions in Canada, which may vary from one province and territory to another. The population of common law unions is not at risk for divorce, as no legal procedure is required to dissolve a common law union. Caution is advised when making cross-cultural comparisons, as consensual unions may represent a large proportion of all unions in some countries.

Coverage and Completeness

Because of the obligatory legal requirements to register divorce in all provinces and territories of Canada, the level of coverage and quality of statistical data are high. There may, however, exist some small regional differences in the completeness reflected in the tabulations due mainly to registrations that may be received beyond

TRAITEMENT DES DONNÉES

Traitement avant réception par Statistique Canada : une fois terminée la procédure de divorce, les tribunaux de chaque province et territoire envoient les renseignements au BEAD pour saisie dans la base centrale de données.

Traitement à Statistique Canada : lors de la réception du fichier de données envoyé par le Bureau central d'enregistrement des divorces, Statistique Canada exerce des contrôles de cohérence sur le fichier afin d'évaluer la qualité des données. Après avoir communiqué avec le BEAD pour examiner les incohérences relevées, Statistique Canada prépare une série de totalisations normalisées.

QUALITÉ DES DONNÉES

Des tableaux détaillés sur le divorce ont été disponibles seulement à partir de 1969 et ils ont été présentés dans des rapports annuels à partir de 1972. Le nombre de divorces figurant dans la publication représente uniquement les "jugements définitifs" prononcés et ne comprennent pas les autres formes de dissolution du mariage, par exemple les séparations. Le nombre de divorces accordés une année donnée est, jusqu'à un certain point, fonction de facteurs comme le nombre d'actions ou de demandes en divorce présentées, le nombre de centres qui entendent les demandes en divorce et l'intervalle nécessaire entre la demande et le jugement final. Les variations peuvent être considérables au niveau provincial ou territorial. On doit tenir compte de ce phénomène lorsque l'on étudie les niveaux relatifs et les tendances d'une année à l'autre.

Le taux de divortialité ne fournit pas nécessairement un indice précis de la dissolution des unions puisque le taux de divortialité est fondé sur les unions légitimes. Les unions consensuelles ou les unions libres constituent au Canada une proportion considérable des unions et cette proportion peut varier d'une province ou d'un territoire à l'autre. Les personnes vivant en union libre ne peuvent divorcer car elles n'ont pas à avoir recours à une procédure légale pour dissoudre leur union. Les unions consensuelles peuvent représenter un large pourcentage des unions dans certains pays; il faut donc être prudent avant d'effectuer des comparaisons inter-culturelles.

Champ d'observation

Comme la loi exige que l'on tienne un registre des divorces prononcés dans toutes les provinces canadiennes et les deux territoires, le champ d'observation et la qualité des données statistiques répondent à des normes très strictes. Il peut toutefois exister de petites disparités régionales quant à l'exhaustivité des tableaux, en raison surtout des the cut-off date for data tabulation. The overall effect of these on the statistical measures and tabulations is small.

Completeness of reporting of core statistical items varies with the item, the reporting province and territory, and the year. Most data elements that comprise the standard tabulations produced by Statistics Canada have a high level of completeness.

Data relating to child custody and dependent children, however, are not complete, because child custody arrangements are not always recorded on the divorce registration form. In cases in which the parties reached a decision about custody of the children beforehand and the court did not have to adjudicate, the children may not be entered into the record of divorce. Consequently, the total number of custody orders and the total number of dependent children affected by divorce are underestimated by divorce registration data.

documents reçus après la date limite pour la totalisation des données. L'effet de ces retards sur les mesures statistiques et les totalisations est toutefois minime.

L'exhaustivité de la déclaration des éléments statistiques essentiels diffère selon les éléments, la province ou le territoire de déclaration et l'année. La plupart des éléments d'information qui sont intégrés aux totalisations spéciales de Statistique Canada sont très complets.

Cependant, les données relatives à la garde des enfants et aux enfants à charge ne sont pas exhaustives parce que les ententes concernant la garde des enfants ne sont pas toujours consignées au formulaire d'enregistrement des divorces. Dans les cas où les parties se sont entendues avant le jugement au sujet de la garde des enfants et où le tribunal n'a pas eu à se prononcer, les renseignements sur les enfants ne figurent peut-être pas dans le procès-verbal du divorce. En conséquence, les données sur le nombre total d'ordonnances de garde et sur le nombre total d'enfants à charge concernés par un divorce est sous-estimé dans les données sur l'enregistrement des divorces.

(1) As of the 1993 data year, divorces not involving dependent children are now included in other divorces (insufficient information) because of inconsistencies in reporting this information.

(1) À partir de l'année 1993, les divorces n'impliquant pas d'enfants à charge sont compris dans les autres divorces (renseignements insuffisants) en raison d'incohérences dans la collecte de l'information.

(2) These total are less than the total number of divorces because it only consider divorces granted under the Divorce Act of 1985.

(2) Ce total est plus petit que le nombre total des divorces parce qu'il tient compte uniquement des divorces accordés en vertu de la Loi sur le divorce de 1985.

(3) The number of dependent children in divorces involving custody orders includes only those children from divorces in which the divorce court made a custody decision. (See "Data Quality" section.)

(3) Le nombre d'enfants à charge pour les divorces avec ordonnance de garde comprend seulement les enfants pour lesquels la décision relative à la garde des enfants a été prise par la cour de divorce. (Voir la section "Qualité des données".)

INTRODUCTION

History

A complete and accurate registration of all vital events in Canada is the main objective of a series of collaborative agreements between Canada, the provinces and territories. Since 1969, data relating to divorce have been provided to Statistics Canada by the Central Registry of Divorce Proceedings in the Department of Justice Canada. The target universe for divorce statistics consists of all divorces processed in Canada.

Pursuant to the Divorce Act in 1968, a Central Registry of Divorce Proceedings (CRDP) was established within the Department of Justice Canada. The CRDP was originally set up as a mechanism to detect the existence of two divorce applications involving the same couple in different provincial and territorial jurisdictions. Duplication of divorce applications generally occurs in three situations: (1) a person filed an earlier divorce application and failed to proceed with it or filed a discontinuance; (2) the parties each desire carriage of the action and each files a divorce application; or (3) the parties have lost touch with each other, and one party is unaware that the other party has filed for or already obtained a divorce judgment. The CRDP assembles, sorts, and searches out the records of applications for divorce filed anywhere in Canada in order to identify such cases.

Purpose

Divorce statistics are important for both administrative and demographic reasons. For example, government departments and embassies require confirmation of the marital status of a person for pension and immigration purposes. Divorce data are important evidence for litigation involving fatal accidents, and for the administration of social programs. Divorce statistics are also used in special studies that analyze divorce as a social phenomenon, for the analysis of fertility data, and for the development of household, family and population estimates and projections.

The data elements in the divorce file include the following information: age of the husband and wife at the time of the marriage, date of husband's and wife's birth, marital status just prior to marriage, province and territory of divorce decree, age of husband and wife at time of divorce, duration of marriage, grounds for divorce, person making the divorce application, reasons for marriage breakdown, dependent children, and child custody arrangements.

INTRODUCTION

Historique

L'enregistrement complet et précis des actes de l'état civil au Canada est le principal but d'une série d'ententes de collaboration conclues entre le Canada, les provinces et territoires. Depuis 1969, les données sur le divorce sont fournies à Statistique Canada par le Bureau d'enregistrement des actions en divorce du ministère de la Justice du Canada. L'univers visé par la statistique du divorce est l'ensemble des cas de divorce traités au Canada.

Conformément à la Loi sur le divorce de 1968, on a créé un Bureau d'enregistrement des actions en divorce (BEAD) au sein du ministère de la Justice du Canada. Le BEAD avait été établi à l'origine comme mécanisme d'information destiné à détecter l'enregistrement de deux demandes de divorce concernant le même mariage dans des provinces ou territoires différents. Les demandes de divorce présentées en double se produisent généralement en trois circonstances : 1) une personne a déjà introduit une action en divorce dans le passé mais n'a pas donné suite à son action ou s'est désistée; 2) les deux parties désirent que l'action soit poursuivie et chacune présente une demande de divorce; ou 3) les parties se sont perdues de vue et une des parties ignore que l'autre a fait une demande de divorce ou a obtenu le divorce. Le BEAD réunit, trie et consulte les dossiers de demandes en divorce déposées n'importe où au Canada afin de découvrir ces cas.

Objectifs

La statistique du divorce est essentielle pour des raisons administratives et démographiques. Par exemple, les ministères et les ambassades ont besoin d'avoir confirmation de l'état matrimonial d'une personne à des fins d'immigration et de pension. Les données sur le divorce sont des preuves importantes pour les litiges concernant les accidents mortels ou pour l'administration des programmes sociaux. La statistique du divorce sert également aux études spéciales ayant pour objet l'analyse du divorce comme phénomène social, à l'analyse des données sur la fécondité et, enfin, à l'élaboration des estimations et des projections relatives aux ménages, à la famille et à la population.

Les éléments d'information du dossier de divorce comprennent l'âge de l'époux et de l'épouse au mariage, la date de naissance de l'époux et de l'épouse, l'état matrimonial au moment précédant le mariage, la province ou le territoire du jugement de divorce, l'âge de l'époux et de l'épouse au moment du divorce, la durée du mariage, les motifs de divorce, la personne qui exerce l'action en divorce, les raisons de l'échec du mariage, les enfants à charge, les ententes relatives à la garde des enfants.

METHODOLOGY

Data Collection

Information relating to divorces registered in each of the provinces and territories of Canada is collected by the CRDP of the Department of Justice Canada. The impetus for a central divorce registry arose from the need to eliminate duplicate registrations of divorce proceedings. At present, intraprovincial or intraterritorial duplications arise in approximately 5% of all applications, and interprovincial or interterritorial duplications arise in 0.5% of applications.

Each year, the CRDP sends a machine-readable file on completed divorce cases to the Health Statistics Division at Statistics Canada. Statistics Canada processes the data to produce a set of standard tabulations.

Note that completed divorces (divorces granted) in a given year do not necessarily relate to legal actions filed in the same year.

Population Counts Used in Calculating Rates

In 1993, Statistics Canada introduced a new series of population estimates that include non-permanent residents and adjustments for net census undercoverage. The series for provinces and territories comprises annual population estimates by age (single years), sex, and marital status, beginning with 1971. Non-permanent residents are persons claiming refugee status, persons holding a student authorization, persons holding an employment authorization, persons holding a minister's permit, and all non-Canadian-born dependents of the above individuals. Net census undercoverage is the difference between census undercoverage and census overcoverage. The former refers to persons not enumerated in the census but who were part of the census universe; the latter refers to persons either enumerated more than once or enumerated but not part of the census universe.

Divorce rates in this publication are based on the latest population estimates available at the time of derivation. Because population estimates are frequently revised, the rates found here may differ slightly from divorce rates published elsewhere. Population estimates for 1998 are provided in Appendices 1 and 2.

MÉTHODOLOGIE

Collecte des données

Des renseignements relatifs aux cas de divorce enregistrés dans les provinces et les territoires du Canada sont réunis par le BEAD du ministère de la Justice du Canada. La nécessité d'éliminer l'enregistrement en double des actions en divorce a motivé la création d'un bureau central d'enregistrement des divorces. À l'heure actuelle, les demandes en divorce en double à l'intérieur de la même province ou du même territoire se produisent dans environ 5 % des cas et celles dans des provinces ou territoires différents, dans 0,5 % des cas.

Tous les ans, le BEAD envoie un fichier de données lisible par machine sur le cas de divorce prononcés à la Division des statistiques sur la santé de Statistique Canada. Statistique Canada traite alors les données pour produire une série de totalisations normalisées.

Il faut prendre note que les divorces prononcés (divorces rendus) au cours d'une année donnée ne correspondent pas nécessairement aux actions en divorce intentées cette même année.

Chiffres de population servant au calcul des taux

En 1993, Statistique Canada a commencé à utiliser une nouvelle série d'estimations de la population qui tient compte des résidents non permanents et des rajustements réalisés pour le sous-dénombrement net du recensement. Les séries pour les provinces et les territoires comprennent les estimations annuelles de la population selon l'âge (âge pris an par an), le sexe et l'état matrimonial, à partir de 1971. Les résidents non permanents sont des personnes qui revendiquent le statut de réfugié, des titulaires d'un permis de séjour pour étudiant, des titulaires d'un permis de travail, des détenteurs d'un permis ministériel et toute personne à charge née à l'étranger des personnes susmentionnées. Le sous-dénombrement net du recensement correspond à la différence entre le sous-dénombrement du recensement et le surdénombrement du recensement. Le premier terme englobe les personnes non recensées faisant partie de l'univers du recensement alors que le second fait référence aux personnes qui sont dénombrées plus d'une fois ou qui sont dénombrées alors qu'elles ne font pas partie de l'univers du recensement.

Les taux de divortialité de la présente publication sont fondés sur les plus récentes estimations de la population disponibles au moment des calculs. Puisque ces estimations sont fréquemment mises à jour, les taux dont il est ici question diffèrent peut-être légèrement des taux de divortialité parus dans d'autres publications. Les annexes 1 et 2 présentent les estimations de la population pour 1998.

Change in Grounds for Divorce over Time

Under the Divorce Act of 1985, the grounds for divorce changed. Marriage breakdown became the only grounds for divorce, and the evidence for marriage breakdown was reduced to separation for at least one year, adultery, physical cruelty, or mental cruelty.

In cases where couples file a joint application for divorce, the only valid category is separation for at least one year. The other three reasons for divorce—adultery, physical cruelty, and mental cruelty—are only legally admissible when one spouse initiates a divorce proceeding against the other.

Changement des motifs de divorce dans le temps

Avec l'entrée en vigueur de la Loi sur le divorce de 1985, les motifs de divorce ont changé. L'échec du mariage est devenu le seul motif de divorce et les preuves de l'échec ont été réduites aux suivantes : séparation depuis au moins un an, adultère, cruauté physique ou cruauté mentale.

Dans les cas où les conjoints font une demande commune de divorce, la seule catégorie valide est la séparation pendant au moins un an. Les trois autres raisons—adultère, cruauté physique et cruauté mentale—ne sont admissibles légalement que si un des conjoints entame une action en divorce contre l'autre.

GLOSSARY

Applicant

In the Divorce Act of 1985, the applicant is the person or persons (husband, wife, or husband and wife jointly) who applied for a divorce. Joint application refers to a situation in which both spouses collaborate in the submission of an application. (See also Petitioner and Respondent.)

Divorce

The legal dissolution of a legal marriage. Divorce data are presented here on the basis of the province or territory where the decree was granted.

Divorce rates

- Crude divorce rate: The number of divorces per 100,000 population
- Duration-specific divorce rate: The divorce rate in a particular year for a specific marriage cohort. For example, the 1998 divorce rate for persons married in 1988 (i.e. the 1988 marriage cohort) is calculated by dividing the number of 1998 divorces granted to persons married in 1988 by the number of marriages performed in 1988. When multiplied by 1,000, the result is expressed as the number of 1998 divorces per 1,000 1988 marriages. (This rate incorporates a bias of unknown magnitude due to the death of some spouses during the period as well as in- and out-migration, that is, persons moving from one province or territory to another, or to or from Canada. Divorce records with an unknown year of marriage were distributed on the basis of divorces with known years of marriage.)
- Total divorce rate (TDR): The sum of duration-specific divorce rates. In this publication, the summation goes back to 50 years, that is, it accumulates divorce rates pertaining to marriages having taken place between 1949 and 1998. This measure is expressed as the proportion of married couples who are expected to divorce before their 50th anniversary, given the duration-specific divorce rates for 1998. For example, the 1998 Quebec TDR of 487 per 1,000 marriages indicates that 48.7% of 1998 marriages performed in Quebec are expected to end in divorce before the 50th anniversary, if the conditions observed in 1998 remain stable.

GLOSSAIRE

Demandant

Dans la Loi sur le divorce de 1985, le demandant est la ou les personnes (époux, épouse ou les deux conjoints) qui exerce une action en divorce. Les demandes communes font référence à la situation où les deux conjoints présentent ensemble la demande. (Voir également Requérant et répondant.)

Divorce

Dissolution légale d'un mariage légitime. Les données sur le divorce présentées ici se fondent sur la province ou sur le territoire où le jugement a été rendu.

Taux de divortialité

- Taux brut de divortialité : Nombre de divorces pour 100 000 habitants.
- Taux de divortialité par durée de mariage : Taux de divortialité une année particulière pour une cohorte particulière de mariage. Par exemple, on calcule le taux de divortialité en 1998 pour les personnes qui se sont mariées en 1988 (c.-à-d. la cohorte des mariages de 1988 en divisant le nombre de divorces accordés en 1998 aux personnes qui se sont mariées en 1988 par le nombre de mariages célébrés en 1988. Si on multiplie le résultat par 1 000, on obtient le nombre de divorces en 1998 pour 1 000 mariages de 1988. (Ce taux est entaché d'un biais de grandeur inconnue qui résulte du décès de certains conjoints durant la période, ainsi que de l'immigration et de l'émigration [c.-à-d. les personnes qui immigreront d'une province ou d'un territoire à un autre ou qui immigreront au Canada ou en émigreront]. Les cas de divorce pour lesquels on ne connaît pas le nombre d'années de mariage sont ventilés en se fondant sur la répartition des divorces pour lesquels on connaît la durée du mariage.)
- Indice synthétique de divortialité (ISD) : Somme des taux de divortialité par durée de mariage. Dans cette publication, la somme remonte 50 ans en arrière; autrement dit, elle correspond à la somme des taux de divortialité se rapportant aux mariages qui ont eu lieu de 1949 à 1998. On exprime cette mesure comme étant la proportion de couples mariés qui, en principe, divorceront avant leur 50^e anniversaire de mariage, compte tenu des taux de divortialité par durée de mariage calculés pour 1998. Par exemple, le ISD en 1998 au Québec de 487 pour 1 000 mariages indique que 48,7% des mariages célébrés au Québec en 1998 se solderont par un divorce avant le 50^e anniversaire de mariage si les conditions observées en 1998 se maintiennent.

- Marital divorce rate by age and sex: Number of divorces per 1,000 legally married men or women of the same age.

Duration of marriage

The duration of marriage is the amount of time elapsed (in years) between the marriage date (day, month and year) and the date the divorce decree was granted.

Marital status just prior to marriage

Used in the context of divorce statistics, marital status just prior to marriage is the marital status of the individual immediately before the marriage to which the divorce decree relates. Persons entering into a marriage may be single (never married), divorced or widowed.

Marriage

The legal union of two persons of the opposite sex. Common-law relationships are excluded. The marriage data in this publication are presented by place of occurrence, that is, the province or territory where the marriage took place.

Mean age at divorce (or marriage)

The mean (average) age at divorce (or marriage) in a province or territory was calculated by adding a half year to a spouse's age at his or her last birthday and multiplying the result by the number of divorces (or marriages) occurring at that spouse's age, summing those values, and then dividing the sum by the total number of divorces (or marriages) in that jurisdiction.

Median

The median is another measure of central tendency. It is the middle value in a set of ordered numbers (e.g. divorcing wives' ages ranked from youngest to oldest). In the case of an even number of observations, the median is the average of the two middle values.

Petitioner and Respondent

In the Divorce Act of 1968 (which preceded the Divorce Act of 1985), the petitioner was the person (husband or wife) who petitioned Parliament for a divorce. The petitioner's spouse was the respondent. (See also Applicant.)

- Taux de divortialité conjugal par âge et par sexe : Nombre de divorces pour 1 000 hommes ou femmes mariés légalement du même âge.

Durée du mariage

La durée du mariage correspond au temps qui s'est écoulé (en années) entre la date du mariage (jour, mois, année) et la date où le jugement de divorce a été prononcé.

État matrimonial au moment précédant le mariage

Utilisée dans le contexte des statistiques sur le divorce, l'état matrimonial au moment précédant le mariage fait référence à l'état matrimonial de la personne immédiatement avant le mariage auquel se rapporte le jugement de divorce. Au moment du mariage, la personne peut être célibataire (jamais mariée), veuve ou divorcée.

Mariage

Union légitime entre deux personnes de sexe opposé. Les unions de fait sont exclues. Dans la présente publication, les données sur le mariage sont présentées selon le lieu de l'événement, autrement dit, la province ou le territoire où a eu lieu le mariage.

Âge moyen au divorce (ou au mariage)

Pour calculer l'âge moyen au divorce (ou au mariage) dans une province ou un territoire donné, on ajoute une demi-année à l'âge de l'époux au moment du dernier anniversaire et on multiplie le résultat par le nombre de divorces (ou mariages) de personnes ayant l'âge de l'époux, puis on additionne les produits obtenus et on divise la somme par le nombre total de divorces (ou mariages) enregistrés dans la province ou le territoire concerné.

Médiane

La médiane est une autre mesure de tendance centrale. Elle est la valeur centrale d'un ensemble ordonné de valeurs (p.ex., les âges des épouses divorcées classés par ordre croissant). Si le nombre de valeurs est pair, la médiane correspond à la moyenne arithmétique des deux valeurs centrales.

Requérant et répondant

Dans la Loi sur le divorce de 1968 (qui a précédé la Loi sur le divorce de 1985), le requérant était la personne (époux ou épouse) qui portait sa demande en divorce devant le parlement. Le conjoint du requérant était le répondant. (Voir aussi Demandant.)

Population

Persons whose usual place of residence is somewhere in Canada, including Canadian government employees stationed abroad and their families, members of the Canadian Armed Forces stationed abroad and their families, crews of Canadian merchant vessels, and non-permanent residents of Canada.

Adjusted population estimates are used in vital statistics to better reflect Canada's population; these estimates include upward adjustments for net census undercoverage and non-permanent residents. The reference date for these annual estimates is July 1.

The population estimates used to calculate the rates in this publication can be found in Appendices 1 and 2. The estimates in Appendix 1 are also available in Annual Demographic Statistics, Statistics Canada, catalogue 91-213 and the estimates in Appendix 2 are also available upon request to Demography Division, Statistics Canada. Because population estimates are frequently revised by Demography Division, those shown here may differ from other published estimates.

Population

Personnes dont le lieu de résidence se situe au Canada, y compris les fonctionnaires canadiens en poste à l'étranger et les membres de leurs familles, les membres des Forces canadiennes stationnés à l'étranger et les membres de leurs familles, les équipages des navires marchands canadiens et les résidents non permanents au Canada.

Les statistiques de l'état civil se fondent sur des estimations démographiques corrigées pour mieux refléter la population du Canada; ces estimations sont obtenues par un rajustement à la hausse pour tenir compte de sous-dénombrement net du recensement et des résidents non permanent. La date de référence de ces estimations annuelles est le 1^{er} juillet.

Les estimations démographiques utilisées pour calculer les taux publiés ici figurent aux annexes 1 et 2. Les estimations figurant à l'annexe 1 figurent aussi dans la publication intitulée Statistiques démographiques annuelles, Statistique Canada, n° 91-213 au catalogue et les estimations figurant à l'annexe 2 sont aussi disponibles sur demande à la Division de la démographie, Statistique Canada. Comme la Division de la démographie révisé fréquemment les estimations démographiques, celles qui sont présentées ici pourraient différer de celles publiées ailleurs.

DATA PROCESSING

In each province and territory, after a divorce process has been finalized, the court granting the decree sends information to the CRDP for entry into its central database.

Upon receipt of an annual data file from the CRDP, Statistics Canada carries out a series of consistency checks to assess the quality of the data. Following consultations with the CRDP to resolve any inconsistencies, a series of standard tabulations is prepared.

DATA QUALITY

Detailed tabulations on divorce have been available since 1969, and these have been presented in annual reports since 1972. Divorce counts in this publication represent "decrees absolute" and do not include any other form of marital dissolution (e.g., separation). To some extent, the number of divorce decrees granted in any one year depends on such factors as the number of petitions or applications filed, the number of centres hearing divorce petitions, and the time interval necessary for a petition to end in a final decree. Variations could be appreciable at a provincial or territorial level. This aspect should be taken into account when making comparisons between jurisdictions, or within jurisdictions over time.

Divorce rates do not necessarily provide an accurate index of marital dissolution, since they are based on unions that have been legally contracted. Common-law relationships comprise a significant proportion of unions in Canada, which may vary from one province or territory to another. Persons in common-law relationships are not at risk for divorce, since no legal procedure is required to dissolve such unions. Caution is advised when making cross-cultural comparisons, as consensual unions may represent a large proportion of all unions in some communities.

Coverage and Completeness

Because of the obligatory legal requirements to register divorce decrees in all provinces and territories, the level of coverage and data quality of divorce statistics are high. Small regional differences in coverage may exist, however, due mainly to registrations received beyond the cutoff date for data compilation, but the overall effect of these on the statistical measures and tabulations is small.

TRAITEMENT DES DONNÉES

Après la finalisation d'un processus de divorce dans chaque province ou territoire, le tribunal concerné transmet les renseignements au BEAD pour saisie dans la base de données centrale.

Lors de la réception du fichier de données annuel envoyé par le Bureau central d'enregistrement des divorces, Statistique Canada exerce des contrôles de cohérence afin d'évaluer la qualité des données. Après consultation du BEAD pour régler les incohérences relevées, Statistique Canada prépare une série de totalisations normalisées.

QUALITÉ DES DONNÉES

Statistique Canada produit des totalisations détaillées sur les divorces depuis 1969 et ils ont été présentés dans des rapports annuels à partir de 1972. Les nombres de divorces publiés ici correspondent au « nombre absolu de jugements » et n'incluent aucune autre forme de dissolution du mariage (p.ex., la séparation). Dans une certaine mesure, le nombre de jugements de divorce rendus une année particulière dépend de facteurs comme le nombre de requêtes en divorce présentées, le nombre de centres où sont entendues les requêtes en divorce et l'intervalle nécessaire pour qu'une requête en divorce aboutisse à un jugement final. Les variations pourraient être considérables tant à l'échelle provinciale que territoriale, d'où l'importance de tenir compte de cet aspect lors de comparaisons entre province ou territoire ou de comparaisons chronologiques au sein d'une province ou d'un territoire.

Les taux de divortialité ne sont pas nécessairement un indice exact de la dissolution des unions, puisqu'on les calcule en se fondant sur les unions contractées légalement. Or, au Canada, les unions de fait représentent une part importante de l'ensemble des unions, quoique cette proportion varie d'une province ou d'un territoire à l'autre. Toutefois, les conjoints de fait ne courent pas le risque de divorcer, puisqu'aucune action légale n'est nécessaire pour dissoudre la relation. Il est donc conseillé d'interpréter avec prudence les comparaisons entre diverses cultures, puisque l'union de fait peut représenter une forte proportion de l'ensemble des unions dans certaines collectivités.

Couverture et complétude des données

Comme la loi exige l'enregistrement des jugements de divorces prononcés dans chaque province et territoire, le taux de couverture et la qualité des données sur le divorce sont élevés. Toutefois, on pourrait observer de faibles variations de couverture d'une région à l'autre, dues principalement à la transmission tardive d'enregistrements après la date limite pour le dépouillement des données. Toutefois, l'effet global de ces variations sur les mesures statistiques et les totalisations est minime.

The reporting completeness of core statistical items varies with the item, the reporting province or territory, and the year. Most data elements that comprise the standard tabulations produced by Statistics Canada have a high level of completeness.

Data relating to child custody and dependent children, are not complete, however, because court offices do not always provide the required data elements; furthermore, child custody arrangements are not always recorded on the divorce registration form if custodial arrangements were not pursuant to a court order (e.g. where the parties reached a custody decision beforehand and the court did not have to adjudicate). Consequently, divorce registration data underestimate the total number of custody orders as well as the total number of dependent children affected by divorce.

La complétude de la déclaration des éléments statistiques essentiels varie selon l'élément, la province ou le territoire de déclaration, et l'année. Le niveau de complétude est élevé pour la plupart des données élémentaires comprises dans les totalisations types de Statistique Canada.

Les renseignements sur la garde des enfants et sur les enfants à charge ne sont toutefois pas complets, parce que les bureaux des tribunaux ne fournissent pas toujours les éléments de données nécessaires; de surcroît, les dispositions concernant la garde des enfants ne sont pas toujours inscrites sur le formulaire d'enregistrement du divorce si elles n'ont pas été prises à la suite d'une ordonnance du tribunal (p.ex., si les parties se sont entendues avant le jugement au sujet de la garde des enfants et le tribunal n'a pas dû rendre un jugement. En conséquence, les données sur l'enregistrement des divorces mène à une sous-estimation du nombre total d'ordonnances de garde et du nombre total d'enfants à charge touchés par un divorce.

² The 50 year total divorce rate (TDR-50) represents the proportion of married couples who are expected to divorce before their 50th wedding anniversary. For example, a TDR-50 of 393 per 1,000 marriages for Canada in 1998 indicates that 39.3% of marriages are expected to end in divorce before the 50th year of marriage (if the duration-specific divorce rates for 1998 remain stable).

² L'indice synthétique de divortialité de 50 ans (ISD-50) correspond à la proportion de couples mariés qui, en principe, divorceront avant leur 50^e anniversaire de mariage. Par exemple, un ISD-50 de 393 pour 1 000 mariages au Canada en 1998 indique que 39,3 % des mariages se solderont par un divorce avant le 50^e anniversaire (si les taux de divortialité par durée de mariage calculés pour 1998 continuent de prévaloir).

² Divorces not involving dependent children are included in other divorces (insufficient information) because of inconsistencies in reporting this information.

³ The number of dependent children in divorces involving custody orders includes only those children from divorces in which the divorce court made a custody decision. (See "Data Quality" section.)

INTRODUCTION

History

A complete and accurate registration of all vital events in Canada is the main objective of a series of collaborative agreements between Canada, the provinces and territories. Since 1969, data relating to divorce have been provided to Statistics Canada by the Central Registry of Divorce Proceedings in the Department of Justice Canada. The target universe for divorce statistics consists of all divorces processed in Canada.

Pursuant to the Divorce Act of 1968, a Central Registry of Divorce Proceedings (CRDP) was established within the Department of Justice Canada. The CRDP was originally set up as a mechanism to detect the existence of two divorce applications involving the same couple in different provincial and territorial jurisdictions. Duplication of divorce applications generally occurs in three situations: (1) a person filed an earlier divorce application and failed to proceed with it or filed a discontinuance; (2) the parties each desire carriage of the action and each files a divorce application; or (3) the parties have lost touch with each other, and one party is unaware that the other party has filed for or already obtained a divorce judgment. The CRDP assembles, sorts, and searches out the records of applications for divorce filed anywhere in Canada in order to identify such cases.

Purpose

Divorce statistics are important for both administrative and demographic reasons. For example, government departments and embassies require confirmation of the marital status of a person for pension and immigration purposes. Divorce data are important evidence for litigation involving fatal accidents, and for the administration of social programs. Divorce statistics are also used in special studies that analyze divorce as a social phenomenon, for the analysis of fertility data, and for the development of household, family and population estimates and projections.

The data elements in the divorce file include the following information: age of the husband and wife at the time of the marriage, date of husband's and wife's birth, marital status just prior to marriage, province and territory of divorce decree, age of husband and wife at time of divorce, duration of marriage, grounds for divorce, person making the divorce application, reasons for marriage breakdown, dependent children, and child custody arrangements.

INTRODUCTION

Historique

L'enregistrement complet et précis des actes de l'état civil au Canada est le principal but d'une série d'ententes de collaboration conclues entre le Canada, les provinces et territoires. Depuis 1969, les données sur le divorce sont fournies à Statistique Canada par le Bureau d'enregistrement des actions en divorce du ministère de la Justice du Canada. L'univers visé par la statistique du divorce est l'ensemble des cas de divorce traités au Canada.

Conformément à la Loi sur le divorce de 1968, on a créé un Bureau d'enregistrement des actions en divorce (BEAD) au sein du ministère de la Justice du Canada. Le BEAD avait été établi à l'origine comme mécanisme d'information destiné à détecter l'enregistrement de deux demandes de divorce concernant le même mariage dans des provinces ou territoires différents. Les demandes de divorce présentées en double se produisent généralement en trois circonstances : 1) une personne a déjà introduit une action en divorce dans le passé mais n'a pas donné suite à son action ou s'est désistée; 2) les deux parties désirent que l'action soit poursuivie et chacune présente une demande de divorce; ou 3) les parties se sont perdues de vue et une des parties ignore que l'autre a fait une demande de divorce ou a obtenu le divorce. Le BEAD réunit, trie et consulte les dossiers de demandes en divorce déposées n'importe où au Canada afin de découvrir ces cas.

Objectifs

La statistique du divorce est essentielle pour des raisons administratives et démographiques. Par exemple, les ministères et les ambassades ont besoin d'avoir confirmation de l'état matrimonial d'une personne à des fins d'immigration et de pension. Les données sur le divorce sont des preuves importantes pour les litiges concernant les accidents mortels ou pour l'administration des programmes sociaux. La statistique du divorce sert également aux études spéciales ayant pour objet l'analyse du divorce comme phénomène social, à l'analyse des données sur la fécondité et, enfin, à l'élaboration des estimations et des projections relatives aux ménages, à la famille et à la population.

Les éléments d'information du dossier de divorce comprennent l'âge de l'époux et de l'épouse au mariage, la date de naissance de l'époux et de l'épouse, l'état matrimonial au moment précédant le mariage, la province ou le territoire du jugement de divorce, l'âge de l'époux et de l'épouse au moment du divorce, la durée du mariage, les motifs de divorce, la personne qui exerce l'action en divorce, les raisons de l'échec du mariage, les enfants à charge, les ententes relatives à la garde des enfants.

METHODOLOGY

Data collection

Information relating to divorces registered in each of the provinces and territories of Canada is collected by the CRDP of the Department of Justice Canada. The impetus for a central divorce registry arose from the need to eliminate duplicate registrations of divorce proceedings. At present, intraprovincial or intraterritorial duplications arise in approximately 5% of all applications, and interprovincial or interterritorial duplications arise in 0.5% of applications.

Each year, the CRDP sends a machine-readable file on completed divorce cases to the Health Statistics Division at Statistics Canada. Statistics Canada processes the data to produce a set of standard tabulations.

Note that completed divorces (divorces granted) in a given year do not necessarily relate to legal actions filed in the same year.

Population counts used in calculating rates

In 1993, Statistics Canada introduced a new series of population estimates that include non-permanent residents and adjustments for net census undercoverage. The series for provinces and territories comprises annual population estimates by age (single years), sex, and marital status, beginning with 1971. Non-permanent residents are persons claiming refugee status, persons holding a student authorization, persons holding an employment authorization, persons holding a minister's permit, and all non-Canadian-born dependents of the above individuals. Net census undercoverage is the difference between census undercoverage and census overcoverage. The former refers to persons not enumerated in the census but who were part of the census universe; the latter refers to persons either enumerated more than once or enumerated but not part of the census universe.

Divorce rates in this publication are based on the latest population estimates available at the time of derivation. Because population estimates are frequently revised, the rates found here may differ slightly from divorce rates published elsewhere. Population estimates for 1999 and 2000 are provided in Appendices 1 to 4.

MÉTHODOLOGIE

Collecte des données

Des renseignements relatifs aux cas de divorce enregistrés dans les provinces et les territoires du Canada sont réunis par le BEAD du ministère de la Justice du Canada. La nécessité d'éliminer l'enregistrement en double des actions en divorce a motivé la création d'un bureau central d'enregistrement des divorces. À l'heure actuelle, les demandes en divorce en double à l'intérieur de la même province ou du même territoire se produisent dans environ 5 % des cas et celles dans des provinces ou territoires différents, dans 0,5 % des cas.

Tous les ans, le BEAD envoie un fichier de données lisible par machine sur le cas de divorce prononcés à la Division de la statistique de la santé de Statistique Canada. Statistique Canada traite alors les données pour produire une série de totalisations normalisées.

Il faut prendre note que les divorces prononcés (divorces rendus) au cours d'une année donnée ne correspondent pas nécessairement aux actions en divorce intentées cette même année.

Chiffres de population servant au calcul des taux

En 1993, Statistique Canada a commencé à utiliser une nouvelle série d'estimations de la population qui tient compte des résidents non permanents et des rajustements réalisés pour le sous-dénombrement net du recensement. Les séries pour les provinces et les territoires comprennent les estimations annuelles de la population selon l'âge (âge pris an par an), le sexe et l'état matrimonial, à partir de 1971. Les résidents non permanents sont des personnes qui revendiquent le statut de réfugié, des titulaires d'un permis de séjour pour étudiant, des titulaires d'un permis de travail, des détenteurs d'un permis ministériel et toute personne à charge née à l'étranger des personnes susmentionnées. Le sous-dénombrement net du recensement correspond à la différence entre le sous-dénombrement du recensement et le surdénombrement du recensement. Le premier terme englobe les personnes non recensées faisant partie de l'univers du recensement alors que le second fait référence aux personnes qui sont dénombrées plus d'une fois ou qui sont dénombrées alors qu'elles ne font pas partie de l'univers du recensement.

Les taux de divortialité de la présente publication sont fondés sur les plus récentes estimations de la population disponibles au moment des calculs. Puisque ces estimations sont fréquemment mises à jour, les taux dont il est ici question diffèrent peut-être légèrement des taux de divortialité parus dans d'autres publications. Les annexes 1 à 4 présentent les estimations de la population pour 1999 et 2000.

Change in grounds for divorce over time

Under the Divorce Act of 1985, the grounds for divorce changed. Marriage breakdown became the only grounds for divorce, and the evidence for marriage breakdown was reduced to separation for at least one year, adultery, physical cruelty, or mental cruelty.

In cases where couples file a joint application for divorce, the only valid category is separation for at least one year. The other three reasons for divorce—adultery, physical cruelty, and mental cruelty—are only legally admissible when one spouse initiates a divorce proceeding against the other.

Changement des motifs de divorce dans le temps

Avec l'entrée en vigueur de la Loi sur le divorce de 1985, les motifs de divorce ont changé. L'échec du mariage est devenu le seul motif de divorce et les preuves de l'échec ont été réduites aux suivantes : séparation depuis au moins un an, adultère, cruauté physique ou cruauté mentale.

Dans les cas où les conjoints font une demande commune de divorce, la seule catégorie valide est la séparation pendant au moins un an. Les trois autres raisons—adultère, cruauté physique et cruauté mentale—ne sont admissibles légalement que si un des conjoints entame une action en divorce contre l'autre.

GLOSSARY

Applicant

In the Divorce Act of 1985, the applicant is the person or persons (husband, wife, or husband and wife jointly) who applied for a divorce. Joint application refers to a situation in which both spouses collaborate in the submission of an application. (See also Petitioner and Respondent.)

Divorce

The legal dissolution of a legal marriage. Divorce data are presented here on the basis of the province or territory where the decree was granted.

Divorce rates

- Crude divorce rate: The number of divorces per 100,000 population
- Duration-specific divorce rate: The divorce rate in a particular year for a specific marriage cohort. For example, the 2000 divorce rate for persons married in 2000 (i.e. the 2000 marriage cohort) is calculated by dividing the number of 2000 divorces granted to persons married in 2000 by the number of marriages performed in 2000. When multiplied by 1,000, the result is expressed as the number of 2000 divorces per 1,000 2000 marriages. (This rate incorporates a bias of unknown magnitude due to the death of some spouses during the period as well as in- and out-migration, that is, persons moving from one province or territory to another, or to or from Canada. Divorce records with an unknown year of marriage were distributed on the basis of divorces with known years of marriage.)

The processing of 1999 and 2000 marriage data was not completed before the preparation of these tables. Estimates of the number of marriages in 1999 and 2000 were used.

- Total divorce rate (TDR): The sum of duration-specific divorce rates. In this publication, the summation goes back to 50 years, that is, it accumulates divorce rates pertaining to marriages having taken place between 1950 and 1999 or between 1951 and 2000. This measure is expressed as the proportion of married couples who are expected to divorce before their 50th anniversary, given the duration-specific divorce rates for 2000. For example, the 2000 Quebec TDR of 513 per 1,000 marriages indicates that 51.3% of marriages performed in Quebec in 2000 are expected to end in divorce before the 50th anniversary, if the conditions observed in 2000 remain stable.

Demandant

Dans la Loi sur le divorce de 1985, le demandant est la ou les personnes (époux, épouse ou les deux conjoints) qui exerce une action en divorce. Les demandes communes font référence à la situation où les deux conjoints présentent ensemble la demande. (Voir également Requérant et répondant.)

Divorce

Dissolution légale d'un mariage légitime. Les données sur le divorce présentées ici se fondent sur la province ou sur le territoire où le jugement a été rendu.

Taux de divortialité

- Taux brut de divortialité : Nombre de divorces pour 100 000 habitants.
- Taux de divortialité par durée de mariage : Taux de divortialité d'une année particulière pour une cohorte particulière de mariage. Par exemple, on calcule le taux de divortialité en 2000 pour les personnes qui se sont mariées en 2000 (c.-à-d. la cohorte des mariages de 2000) en divisant le nombre de divorces accordés en 2000 aux personnes que se sont mariées en 2000 par le nombre de mariages célébrés en 2000. Si on multiplie le résultat par 1 000, on obtient le nombre de divorces en 2000 pour 1 000 mariages de 2000. (Ce taux est entaché d'un biais de grandeur inconnue qui résulte du décès de certains conjoints durant la période, ainsi que de l'immigration et de l'émigration [c.-à-d. les personnes qui immigreront d'une province ou d'un territoire à un autre ou qui immigreront au Canada ou en émigreront]. Les cas de divorce pour lesquels on ne connaît pas le nombre d'années de mariage sont ventilés en se fondant sur la répartition des divorces pour lesquels on connaît la durée du mariage.)

Le traitement des données sur les mariages de 1999 et 2000 n'était pas fini avant la préparation de ces tableaux. Des estimations du nombre de mariages en 1999 et 2000 sont utilisées.

- Indice synthétique de divortialité (ISD) : Somme des taux de divortialité par durée de mariage. Dans cette publication, la somme remonte 50 ans en arrière; autrement dit, elle correspond à la somme des taux de divortialité se rapportant aux mariages qui ont eu lieu de 1950 à 1999 ou de 1951 à 2000. On exprime cette mesure comme étant la proportion de couples mariés qui, en principe, divorceront avant leur 50^e anniversaire de mariage, compte tenu des taux de divortialité par durée de mariage calculés pour 2000. Par exemple, le ISD en 2000 au Québec de 513 pour 1 000 mariages indique que 51,3 % des mariages célébrés au Québec en 2000 se solderont par un divorce avant le 50^e anniversaire de mariage si les conditions observées en 2000 se maintiennent.

- Marital divorce rate by age and sex: Number of divorces per 1,000 legally married men or women of the same age.

Duration of marriage

The duration of marriage is the amount of time elapsed (in years) between the marriage date (day, month and year) and the date the divorce decree was granted.

Marital status just prior to marriage

Used in the context of divorce statistics, marital status just prior to marriage is the marital status of the individual immediately before the marriage to which the divorce decree relates. Persons entering into a marriage may be single (never married), divorced or widowed.

Marriage

The legal union of two persons of the opposite sex. Common-law relationships are excluded. The marriage data in this publication are presented by place of occurrence, that is, the province or territory where the marriage took place.

Mean age at divorce (or marriage)

The mean (average) age at divorce (or marriage) in a province or territory was calculated by adding a half year to a spouse's age at his or her last birthday and multiplying the result by the number of divorces (or marriages) of persons having that spouse's age, summing those values, and then dividing the sum by the total number of divorces (or marriages) in that jurisdiction.

Median

The median is another measure of central tendency. It is the middle value in a set of ordered numbers (e.g. divorcing wives' ages ranked from youngest to oldest). In the case of an even number of observations, the median is the average of the two middle values.

Petitioner and respondent

In the Divorce Act of 1968 (which preceded the Divorce Act of 1985), the petitioner was the person (husband or wife) who petitioned Parliament for a divorce. The petitioner's spouse was the respondent. (See also Applicant.)

Population

Persons whose usual place of residence is somewhere in Canada, including Canadian government employees stationed abroad and their families, members of the Canadian Armed Forces stationed abroad and their families, crews of Canadian merchant vessels, and non-permanent residents of Canada.

- Taux de divortialité conjugale par âge et par sexe : Nombre de divorces pour 1 000 hommes ou femmes mariés légalement du même âge.

Durée du mariage

La durée du mariage correspond au temps qui s'est écoulé (en années) entre la date du mariage (jour, mois, année) et la date où le jugement de divorce a été prononcé.

État matrimonial au moment précédant le mariage

Utilisée dans le contexte des statistiques sur le divorce, l'état matrimonial au moment précédant le mariage fait référence à l'état matrimonial de la personne immédiatement avant le mariage auquel se rapporte le jugement de divorce. Au moment du mariage, la personne peut être célibataire (jamais mariée), veuve ou divorcée.

Mariage

Union légitime entre deux personnes de sexe opposé. Les unions de fait sont exclues. Dans la présente publication, les données sur le mariage sont présentées selon le lieu de l'événement, autrement dit, la province ou le territoire où a eu lieu le mariage.

Âge moyen au divorce (ou au mariage)

Pour calculer l'âge moyen au divorce (ou au mariage) dans une province ou un territoire donné, on ajoute une demi-année à l'âge de l'époux au moment du dernier anniversaire et on multiplie le résultat par le nombre de divorces (ou mariages) de personnes ayant l'âge de l'époux, puis on additionne les produits obtenus et on divise la somme par le nombre total de divorces (ou mariages) enregistrés dans la province ou le territoire concerné.

Médiane

La médiane est une autre mesure de tendance centrale. Elle est la valeur centrale d'un ensemble ordonné de valeurs (p.ex., les âges des épouses divorcées classés par ordre croissant). Si le nombre de valeurs est pair, la médiane correspond à la moyenne arithmétique des deux valeurs centrales.

Requérant et répondant

Dans la Loi sur le divorce de 1968 (qui a précédé la Loi sur le divorce de 1985), le requérant était la personne (époux ou épouse) qui portait sa demande en divorce devant le Parlement. Le conjoint du requérant était le répondant. (Voir aussi Demandant.)

Population

Personnes dont le lieu de résidence se situe au Canada, y compris les fonctionnaires canadiens en poste à l'étranger et les membres de leurs familles, les membres des Forces canadiennes stationnés à l'étranger et les membres de leurs familles, les équipages des navires marchands canadiens et les résidents non permanents du Canada.

Adjusted population estimates are used in vital statistics to better reflect Canada's population; these estimates include upward adjustments for net census undercoverage and non-permanent residents. The reference date for these annual estimates is July 1.

The population estimates used to calculate the rates in this publication can be found in Appendices 1 to 4. The source of these population estimates is the Statistics Canada publication, Annual Demographic Statistics, 2001 (catalogue no. 91-213-XPB), released by Demography Division in March 2002. Because population estimates are frequently revised by Demography Division, those shown here may differ from other published estimates.

DATA PROCESSING

In each province and territory, after a divorce process has been finalized, the court granting the decree sends information to the CRDP for entry into its central database.

Upon receipt of an annual data file from the CRDP, Statistics Canada carries out a series of consistency checks to assess the quality of the data. Following consultations with the CRDP to resolve any inconsistencies, a series of standard tabulations is prepared.

DATA QUALITY

Detailed tabulations on divorce have been available since 1969, and these have been presented in annual reports since 1972. Divorce counts in this publication represent «decrees absolute» and do not include any other form of marital dissolution (e.g., separation). To some extent, the number of divorce decrees granted in any one year depends on such factors as the number of petitions or applications filed, the

Les statistiques de l'état civil se fondent sur des estimations démographiques corrigées pour mieux refléter la population du Canada; ces estimations sont obtenues par un rajustement à la hausse pour tenir compte de sous-dénombrement net du recensement et des résidents non permanent. La date de référence de ces estimations annuelles est le 1^{er} juillet.

Les estimations démographiques utilisées pour calculer les taux publiés ici figurent aux annexes 1 à 4. La source des estimations démographiques est la publication de Statistique Canada, Statistiques démographiques annuelles, 2001 (n° 91-213-XPB au catalogue) diffusée en mars 2002 par la Division de la démographie. Comme la Division de la démographie révise fréquemment les estimations démographiques, celles qui sont présentées ici pourraient différer de celles publiées ailleurs.

TRAITEMENT DES DONNÉES

Après la finalisation d'un processus de divorce dans chaque province ou territoire, le tribunal concerné transmet les renseignements au BEAD pour saisie dans la base de données centrale.

Lors de la réception du fichier de données annuel envoyé par le Bureau central d'enregistrement des divorces, Statistique Canada exerce des contrôles de cohérence afin d'évaluer la qualité des données. Après consultation du BEAD pour régler les incohérences relevées, Statistique Canada prépare une série de totalisations normalisées.

QUALITÉ DES DONNÉES

Statistique Canada produit des totalisations détaillées sur les divorces depuis 1969 et ils ont été présentés dans des rapports annuels à partir de 1972. Les nombres de divorces publiés ici correspondent au « nombre absolu de jugements » et n'incluent aucune autre forme de dissolution du mariage (p.ex., la séparation). Dans une certaine mesure, le nombre de jugements de divorce rendus une année number of centres hearing divorce petitions, and the time interval necessary for a petition to end in a final decree. Variations could be appreciable at a provincial or territorial level. This aspect should be taken into account when making comparisons between jurisdictions, or within jurisdictions over time.

Divorce rates do not necessarily provide an accurate index of marital dissolution, since they are based on unions that have been legally contracted. Common-law relationships comprise a significant proportion of unions in Canada, which may vary from one province or territory to another. Persons in common-law relationships are not at risk for divorce, since no legal procedure is required to dissolve such unions. Caution is advised when making cross-cultural comparisons, as consensual unions may represent a large proportion of all unions in some communities.

Coverage and completeness

Because of the obligatory legal requirements to register divorce decrees in all provinces and territories, the level of coverage and data quality of divorce statistics are high. Small regional differences in coverage may exist, however, due mainly to registrations received beyond the cutoff date for data compilation, but the overall effect of these on the statistical measures and tabulations is small.

The reporting completeness of core statistical items varies with the item, the reporting province or territory, and the year. Most data elements that comprise the standard tabulations produced by Statistics Canada have a high level of completeness.

Data relating to child custody and dependent children, are not complete, however, because court offices do not always provide the required data elements; furthermore, child custody arrangements are not always recorded on the divorce registration form if custodial arrangements were not pursuant to a court order (e.g. where the parties reached a custody decision beforehand and the court did not have to adjudicate). Consequently, divorce registration data underestimate the total number of custody orders as well as the total number of dependent children affected by divorce.

particulière dépend de facteurs comme le nombre de requêtes en divorce présentées, le nombre de centres où sont entendues les requêtes en divorce et l'intervalle nécessaire pour qu'une requête en divorce aboutisse à un jugement final. Les variations pourraient être considérables tant à l'échelle provinciale que territoriale, d'où l'importance de tenir compte de cet aspect lors de comparaisons entre province ou territoire ou de comparaisons chronologiques au sein d'une province ou d'un territoire.

Les taux de divortialité ne sont pas nécessairement un indice exact de la dissolution des unions, puisqu'on les calcule en se fondant sur les unions contractées légalement. Or, au Canada, les unions de fait représentent une part importante de l'ensemble des unions, quoique cette proportion varie d'une province ou d'un territoire à l'autre. Toutefois, les conjoints de fait ne courent pas le risque de divorcer, puisqu'aucune action légale n'est nécessaire pour dissoudre la relation. Il est donc conseillé d'interpréter avec prudence les comparaisons entre diverses cultures, puisque l'union de fait peut représenter une forte proportion de l'ensemble des unions dans certaines collectivités.

Couverture et complétude des données

Comme la loi exige l'enregistrement des jugements de divorces prononcés dans chaque province et territoire, le taux de couverture et la qualité des données sur le divorce sont élevés. Toutefois, on pourrait observer de faibles variations de couverture d'une région à l'autre, dues principalement à la transmission tardive d'enregistrements après la date limite pour le dépouillement des données. Toutefois, l'effet global de ces variations sur les mesures statistiques et les totalisations est minime.

La complétude de la déclaration des éléments statistiques essentiels varie selon l'élément, la province ou le territoire de déclaration, et l'année. Le niveau de complétude est élevé pour la plupart des données élémentaires comprises dans les totalisations types de Statistique Canada.

Les renseignements sur la garde des enfants et sur les enfants à charge ne sont toutefois pas complets, parce que les bureaux des tribunaux ne fournissent pas toujours les éléments de données nécessaires; de surcroît, les dispositions concernant la garde des enfants ne sont pas toujours inscrites sur le formulaire d'enregistrement du divorce si elles n'ont pas été prises à la suite d'une ordonnance du tribunal (p.ex., si les parties se sont entendues avant le jugement au sujet de la garde des enfants et le tribunal n'a pas dû rendre un jugement). En conséquence, les données sur l'enregistrement des divorces mène à une sous-estimation du nombre total d'ordonnances de garde et du nombre total d'enfants à charge touchés par un divorce.

² The 30 year total divorce rate (TDR-30) represents the proportion of married couples who are expected to divorce before their 30th wedding anniversary. For example, a TDR-30 of 377 per 1,000 marriages for Canada in 2000 indicates that 37.7% of marriages are expected to end in divorce before the 30th year of marriage (if the duration-specific divorce rates calculated for 2000 remain stable).

² L'indice synthétique de divortialité de 30 ans (ISD-30) correspond à la proportion de couples mariés qui, en principe, divorceront avant leur 30^e anniversaire de mariage. Par exemple, un ISD-30 de 377 pour 1 000 mariages au Canada en 2000 indique que 37,7 % des mariages se solderont par un divorce avant le 30^e anniversaire (si les taux de divortialité par durée de mariage calculés pour 2000 continuent de prévaloir).

³ Northwest Territories and Nunavut are combined to calculate the 30 year total divorce rate (TDR-30) because marriage and divorce data are not available for these territories separately before 2000.

¹ Rates are calculated using population estimates that have been adjusted for net census undercoverage and include non-permanent residents. See Methodology section. Some of the rates should be interpreted with caution, particularly those for the territories, given the small numbers involved.

¹ Le calcul des taux est fondé sur des estimations de la population qui ont été réajustées pour tenir compte du sous-dénombrement net du recensement et qui comprennent les résidents non permanents. Voir la section Méthodologie. On doit interpréter avec prudence certains des taux, particulièrement ceux des territoires, en égard aux faibles nombres sur lesquels ils reposent.

² Unknown ages are allocated proportionately by province and age group.

² Les âges inconnus sont attribués proportionnellement par province et par groupe d'âge.

³ Prior to 2000, there was no divorce court in the part of the Northwest Territories which became Nunavut on April 1, 1999. Changes in divorce rates in the Northwest Territories after 1999 should be interpreted with caution.

² The 30 year total divorce rate (TDR-30) represents the proportion of married couples who are expected to divorce before their 30th wedding anniversary. For example, a TDR-30 of 377 per 1,000 marriages for Canada in 2000 indicates that 37.7% of marriages are expected to end in divorce before the 30th year of marriage (if the duration-specific divorce rates calculated for 2000 remain stable).

² L'indice synthétique de divortialité de 30 ans (ISD-30) correspond à la proportion de couples mariés qui, en principe, divorceront avant leur 30^e anniversaire de mariage. Par exemple, un ISD-30 de 377 pour 1 000 mariages au Canada en 2000 indique que 37,7 % des mariages se solderont par un divorce avant le 30^e anniversaire (si les taux de divortialité par durée de mariage calculés pour 2000 continuent de prévaloir).

³ The 50 year total divorce rate (TDR-50) represents the proportion of married couples who are expected to divorce before their 50th wedding anniversary. For example, a TDR-50 of 409 per 1,000 marriages for Canada in 2000 indicates that 40.9% of marriages are expected to end in divorce before the 50th year of marriage (if the duration-specific divorce rates for 2000 remain stable).

³ L'indice synthétique de divortialité de 50 ans (ISD-50) correspond à la proportion de couples mariés qui, en principe, divorceront avant leur 50^e anniversaire de mariage. Par exemple, un ISD-50 de 409 pour 1 000 mariages au Canada en 2000 indique que 40,9 % des mariages se solderont par un divorce avant le 50^e anniversaire (si les taux de divortialité par durée de mariage calculés pour 2000 continuent de prévaloir).

¹ Avant 2000, il n'existait pas de tribunal de divorce dans la partie des Territoires du Nord-Ouest qui est devenue le Nunavut le 1^{er} avril 1999.

² The total number of reasons exceeds the number of divorces because some divorces involved more than one reason for divorce.

² Ce nombre total de faits est plus grands que le nombre total de divorces parce que dans certains divorces on a cité plus d'un fait.

INTRODUCTION

History

Since 1969, data relating to divorce have been provided to Statistics Canada by the Central Registry of Divorce Proceedings of the Department of Justice Canada. The target universe for divorce statistics consists of all divorces processed in Canada.

Pursuant to the Divorce Act of 1968, a Central Registry of Divorce Proceedings (CRDP) was established within the Department of Justice Canada. The CRDP was originally set up as a mechanism to detect the existence of two divorce applications involving the same couple in different provincial and territorial jurisdictions. Duplication of divorce applications generally occurs in three situations: (1) a person filed an earlier divorce application and failed to proceed with it or filed a discontinuance; (2) the parties each desire carriage of the action and each files a divorce application; or (3) the parties have lost touch with each other, and one party is unaware that the other party has filed for or already obtained a divorce judgment. The CRDP assembles, sorts, and searches out the records of applications for divorce filed anywhere in Canada in order to identify such cases.

Purpose

Divorce statistics are important for both administrative and demographic reasons. For example, government departments and embassies require confirmation of the marital status of a person for pension and immigration purposes. Divorce data are important evidence for litigation involving fatal accidents, and for the administration of social programs. Divorce statistics are also used in special studies that analyze divorce as a social phenomenon, for the analysis of fertility data, and for the development of household, family and population estimates and projections.

The data elements in the divorce file include the following information: age of the husband and wife at the time of the marriage, date of husband's and wife's birth, marital status just prior to marriage, province and territory of divorce decree, age of husband and wife at time of divorce, duration of marriage, grounds for divorce, person making the divorce application, reasons for marriage breakdown, number of dependents, and child custody arrangements.

INTRODUCTION

Historique

Depuis 1969, les données sur le divorce sont fournies à Statistique Canada par le Bureau d'enregistrement des actions en divorce du ministère de la Justice du Canada. L'univers visé par la statistique du divorce est l'ensemble des cas de divorce traités au Canada.

Conformément à la Loi sur le divorce de 1968, on a créé un Bureau d'enregistrement des actions en divorce (BEAD) au sein du ministère de la Justice du Canada. Le BEAD avait été établi à l'origine comme mécanisme d'information destiné à détecter l'enregistrement de deux demandes de divorce concernant le même mariage dans des provinces ou territoires différents. Les demandes de divorce présentées en double se produisent généralement en trois circonstances : 1) une personne a déjà introduit une action en divorce dans le passé mais n'a pas donné suite à son action ou s'est désistée; 2) les deux parties désirent que l'action soit poursuivie et chacune présente une demande de divorce; ou 3) les parties se sont perdues de vue et une des parties ignore que l'autre a fait une demande de divorce ou a obtenu le divorce. Le BEAD réunit, trie et consulte les dossiers de demandes en divorce déposées n'importe où au Canada afin de découvrir ces cas.

Objectifs

La statistique du divorce est essentielle pour des raisons administratives et démographiques. Par exemple, les ministères et les ambassades ont besoin d'avoir confirmation de l'état matrimonial d'une personne à des fins d'immigration et de pension. Les données sur le divorce sont des preuves importantes pour les litiges concernant les accidents mortels ou pour l'administration des programmes sociaux. La statistique du divorce sert également aux études spéciales ayant pour objet l'analyse du divorce comme phénomène social, à l'analyse des données sur la fécondité et, enfin, à l'élaboration des estimations et des projections relatives aux ménages, à la famille et à la population.

Les éléments d'information du dossier de divorce comprennent l'âge de l'époux et de l'épouse au mariage, la date de naissance de l'époux et de l'épouse, l'état matrimonial au moment précédant le mariage, la province ou le territoire du jugement de divorce, l'âge de l'époux et de l'épouse au moment du divorce, la durée du mariage, les motifs de divorce, la personne qui exerce l'action en divorce, les raisons de la rupture du mariage, le nombre de personnes à charge, les ententes relatives à la garde des enfants.

METHODOLOGY

Data collection

Information relating to divorces registered in each of the provinces and territories of Canada is collected by the CRDP of the Department of Justice Canada. The impetus for a central divorce registry arose from the need to eliminate duplicate registrations of divorce proceedings. At present, intraprovincial or intraterritorial duplications arise in approximately 5% of all applications.

Each year, the CRDP sends a machine-readable file on completed divorce cases to the Health Statistics Division at Statistics Canada. Statistics Canada processes the data to produce a set of standard tabulations.

Note that completed divorces (divorces granted) in a given year do not necessarily relate to legal actions filed in the same year.

Population counts used in calculating rates

In 1993, Statistics Canada introduced a new series of population estimates that include non-permanent residents and adjustments for net census undercoverage. The series for provinces and territories comprises annual population estimates by age (single years), sex, and marital status, beginning with 1971. Non-permanent residents are persons claiming refugee status, persons holding a student authorization, persons holding an employment authorization, persons holding a minister's permit, and all non-Canadian-born dependents of the above individuals. Net census undercoverage is the difference between census undercoverage and census overcoverage. The former refers to persons not enumerated in the census but who were part of the census universe; the latter refers to persons either enumerated more than once or enumerated but not part of the census universe.

Divorce rates in this publication are based on the latest population estimates available at the time of derivation. Because population estimates are frequently revised, the rates found here may differ slightly from divorce rates published elsewhere. Population estimates for 2001 and 2002 are provided in Appendices 1 to 4.

MÉTHODOLOGIE

Collecte des données

Des renseignements relatifs aux cas de divorce enregistrés dans les provinces et les territoires du Canada sont réunis par le BEAD du ministère de la Justice du Canada. La nécessité d'éliminer l'enregistrement en double des actions en divorce a motivé la création d'un bureau central d'enregistrement des divorces. À l'heure actuelle, les demandes en divorce en double à l'intérieur de la même province ou du même territoire se produisent dans environ 5 % des cas.

Tous les ans, le BEAD envoie un fichier de données lisible par machine sur le cas de divorce prononcés à la Division de la statistique de la santé de Statistique Canada. Statistique Canada traite alors les données pour produire une série de totalisations normalisées.

Il faut prendre note que les divorces prononcés (divorces rendus) au cours d'une année donnée ne correspondent pas nécessairement aux actions en divorce intentées cette même année.

Chiffres de population servant au calcul des taux

En 1993, Statistique Canada a commencé à utiliser une nouvelle série d'estimations de la population qui tient compte des résidents non permanents et des rajustements réalisés pour le sous-dénombrement net du recensement. Les séries pour les provinces et les territoires comprennent les estimations annuelles de la population selon l'âge (âge pris an par an), le sexe et l'état matrimonial, à partir de 1971. Les résidents non permanents sont des personnes qui revendiquent le statut de réfugié, des titulaires d'un permis de séjour pour étudiant, des titulaires d'un permis de travail, des détenteurs d'un permis ministériel et toute personne à charge née à l'étranger des personnes susmentionnées. Le sous-dénombrement net du recensement correspond à la différence entre le sous-dénombrement du recensement et le surdénombrement du recensement. Le premier terme englobe les personnes non recensées faisant partie de l'univers du recensement alors que le second fait référence aux personnes qui sont dénombrées plus d'une fois ou qui sont dénombrées alors qu'elles ne font pas partie de l'univers du recensement.

Les taux de divortialité de la présente publication sont fondés sur les plus récentes estimations de la population disponibles au moment des calculs. Puisque ces estimations sont fréquemment mises à jour, les taux dont il est ici question diffèrent peut-être légèrement des taux de divortialité parus dans d'autres publications. Les annexes 1 à 4 présentent les estimations de la population pour 2001 et 2002.

Change in grounds for divorce over time

Under the Divorce Act of 1985, the grounds for divorce changed. Marriage breakdown became the only grounds for divorce, and the evidence for marriage breakdown was reduced to separation for at least one year, adultery, physical cruelty, or mental cruelty.

In cases where couples file a joint application for divorce, the only valid category is separation for at least one year. The other three reasons for divorce—adultery, physical cruelty, and mental cruelty—are only legally admissible when one spouse initiates a divorce proceeding against the other.

Changement des motifs de divorce dans le temps

Avec l'entrée en vigueur de la Loi sur le divorce de 1985, les motifs de divorce ont changé. La rupture du mariage est devenu le seul motif de divorce et les preuves de la rupture ont été réduites aux suivantes : séparation depuis au moins un an, adultère, cruauté physique ou cruauté mentale.

Dans les cas où les conjoints font une demande commune de divorce, la seule catégorie valide est la séparation pendant au moins un an. Les trois autres raisons—adultère, cruauté physique et cruauté mentale—ne sont admissibles légalement que si un des conjoints entame une action en divorce contre l'autre.

GLOSSARY

Applicant

In the Divorce Act of 1985, the applicant is the person or persons (husband, wife, or husband and wife jointly) who applied for a divorce. Joint application refers to a situation in which both spouses collaborate in the submission of an application. (See also Petitioner and Respondent.)

Divorce

The legal dissolution of a legal marriage. Divorce data are presented here on the basis of the province or territory where the decree was granted.

Divorce rates

- Crude divorce rate: The number of divorces per 100,000 population
- Duration-specific divorce rate: The divorce rate in a particular year for a specific marriage cohort. For example, the 2002 divorce rate for persons married in 2002 (i.e. the 2002 marriage cohort) is calculated by dividing the number of 2002 divorces granted to persons married in 2002 by the number of marriages performed in 2002. When multiplied by 1,000, the result is expressed as the number of 2002 divorces per 1,000 2002 marriages. (This rate incorporates a bias of unknown magnitude due to the death of some spouses during the period as well as in- and out-migration, that is, persons moving from one province or territory to another, or to or from Canada. Divorce records with an unknown year of marriage were distributed on the basis of divorces with known years of marriage.)

The processing of 2002 marriage data was not completed before the preparation of these tables. Estimates of the number of marriages in 2002 were used.

- Total divorce rate (TDR): The sum of duration-specific divorce rates. In this publication, the summation goes back to 50 years, that is, it accumulates divorce rates pertaining to marriages having taken place between 1952 and 2001 or between 1953 and 2002. This measure is expressed as the proportion of married couples who are expected to divorce before their 50th anniversary, given the duration-specific divorce rates for 2002. For example, the 2002 Quebec TDR of 517 per 1,000 marriages indicates that 51.7% of marriages performed in Quebec in 2002 are expected to end in divorce before the 50th anniversary, if the conditions observed in 2002 remain stable.

Demandant

Dans la Loi sur le divorce de 1985, le demandant est la ou les personnes (époux, épouse ou les deux conjoints) qui exerce une action en divorce. Les demandes communes font référence à la situation où les deux conjoints présentent ensemble la demande. (Voir également Requérant et répondant.)

Divorce

Dissolution légale d'un mariage légitime. Les données sur le divorce présentées ici se fondent sur la province ou sur le territoire où le jugement a été rendu.

Taux de divortialité

- Taux brut de divortialité : Nombre de divorces pour 100 000 habitants.
- Taux de divortialité par durée de mariage : Taux de divortialité d'une année particulière pour une cohorte particulière de mariage. Par exemple, on calcule le taux de divortialité en 2002 pour les personnes qui se sont mariées en 2002 (c.-à-d. la cohorte des mariages de 2002) en divisant le nombre de divorces accordés en 2002 aux personnes que se sont mariées en 2002 par le nombre de mariages célébrés en 2002. Si on multiplie le résultat par 1 000, on obtient le nombre de divorces en 2002 pour 1 000 mariages de 2002. (Ce taux est entaché d'un biais de grandeur inconnue qui résulte du décès de certains conjoints durant la période, ainsi que de l'immigration et de l'émigration [c.-à.-d. les personnes qui immigreront d'une province ou d'un territoire à un autre ou qui immigreront au Canada ou en émigreront]. Les cas de divorce pour lesquels on ne connaît pas le nombre d'années de mariage sont ventilés en se fondant sur la répartition des divorces pour lesquels on connaît la durée du mariage.)

Le traitement des données sur les mariages de 2002 n'était pas fini avant la préparation de ces tableaux. Des estimations du nombre de mariages en 2002 sont utilisées.

- Indice synthétique de divortialité (ISD) : Somme des taux de divortialité par durée de mariage. Dans cette publication, la somme remonte 50 ans en arrière; autrement dit, elle correspond à la somme des taux de divortialité se rapportant aux mariages qui ont eu lieu de 1952 à 2001 ou de 1953 à 2002. On exprime cette mesure comme étant la proportion de couples mariés qui, en principe, divorceront avant leur 50^e anniversaire de mariage, compte tenu des taux de divortialité par durée de mariage calculés pour 2002. Par exemple, le ISD en 2002 au Québec de 517 pour 1 000 mariages indique que 51,7 % des mariages célébrés au Québec en 2002 se solderont par un divorce avant le 50^e anniversaire de mariage si les conditions observées en 2002 se maintiennent.

- Marital divorce rate by age and sex: Number of divorces per 1,000 legally married men or women of the same age.

Duration of marriage

The duration of marriage is the amount of time elapsed (in years) between the marriage date (day, month and year) and the date the divorce decree was granted.

Marital status just prior to marriage

Used in the context of divorce statistics, marital status just prior to marriage is the marital status of the individual immediately before the marriage to which the divorce decree relates. Persons entering into a marriage may be single (never married), divorced or widowed.

Marriage

The legal union of two persons of the opposite sex. Common-law relationships are excluded. The marriage data in this publication are presented by place of occurrence, that is, the province or territory where the marriage took place.

Mean age at divorce (or marriage)

The mean (average) age at divorce (or marriage) in a province or territory was calculated by adding a half year to a spouse's age at his or her last birthday and multiplying the result by the number of divorces (or marriages) of persons having that spouse's age, summing those values, and then dividing the sum by the total number of divorces (or marriages) in that jurisdiction.

Median

The median is another measure of central tendency. It is the middle value in a set of ordered numbers (e.g. divorcing wives' ages ranked from youngest to oldest). In the case of an even number of observations, the median is the average of the two middle values.

Petitioner and respondent

In the Divorce Act of 1968 (which preceded the Divorce Act of 1985), the petitioner was the person (husband or wife) who petitioned Parliament for a divorce. The petitioner's spouse was the respondent. (See also Applicant.)

Population

Persons whose usual place of residence is somewhere in Canada, including Canadian government employees stationed abroad and their families, members of the Canadian Armed Forces stationed abroad and their families, crews of Canadian merchant vessels, and non-permanent residents of Canada.

- Taux de divortialité conjugale par âge et par sexe : Nombre de divorces pour 1 000 hommes ou femmes mariés légalement du même âge.

Durée du mariage

La durée du mariage correspond au temps qui s'est écoulé (en années) entre la date du mariage (jour, mois, année) et la date où le jugement de divorce a été prononcé.

État matrimonial au moment précédant le mariage

Utilisée dans le contexte des statistiques sur le divorce, l'état matrimonial au moment précédant le mariage fait référence à l'état matrimonial de la personne immédiatement avant le mariage auquel se rapporte le jugement de divorce. Au moment du mariage, la personne peut être célibataire (jamais mariée), veuve ou divorcée.

Mariage

Union légitime entre deux personnes de sexe opposé. Les unions de fait sont exclues. Dans la présente publication, les données sur le mariage sont présentées selon le lieu de l'événement, autrement dit, la province ou le territoire où a eu lieu le mariage.

Âge moyen au divorce (ou au mariage)

Pour calculer l'âge moyen au divorce (ou au mariage) dans une province ou un territoire donné, on ajoute une demi-année à l'âge de l'époux au moment du dernier anniversaire et on multiplie le résultat par le nombre de divorces (ou mariages) de personnes ayant l'âge de l'époux, puis on additionne les produits obtenus et on divise la somme par le nombre total de divorces (ou mariages) enregistrés dans la province ou le territoire concerné.

Médiane

La médiane est une autre mesure de tendance centrale. Elle est la valeur centrale d'un ensemble ordonné de valeurs (p.ex., les âges des épouses divorcées classés par ordre croissant). Si le nombre de valeurs est pair, la médiane correspond à la moyenne arithmétique des deux valeurs centrales.

Requérant et répondant

Dans la Loi sur le divorce de 1968 (qui a précédé la Loi sur le divorce de 1985), le requérant était la personne (époux ou épouse) qui portait sa demande en divorce devant le Parlement. Le conjoint du requérant était le répondant. (Voir aussi Demandant.)

Population

Personnes dont le lieu de résidence se situe au Canada, y compris les fonctionnaires canadiens en poste à l'étranger et les membres de leurs familles, les membres des Forces canadiennes stationnés à l'étranger et les membres de leurs familles, les équipages des navires marchands canadiens et les résidents non permanents du Canada.

Adjusted population estimates are used in vital statistics to better reflect Canada's population; these estimates include upward adjustments for net census undercoverage and non-permanent residents. The reference date for these annual estimates is July 1.

The population estimates used to calculate the rates in this publication can be found in Appendices 1 to 4. The source of these population estimates is the Statistics Canada publication, Annual Demographic Statistics, 2003 (catalogue no. 91-213-XPB), released by Demography Division in March 2004. Because population estimates are frequently revised by Demography Division, those shown here may differ from other published estimates.

DATA PROCESSING

In each province and territory, after a divorce process has been finalized, the court granting the decree sends information to the CRDP for entry into its central database.

Upon receipt of an annual data file from the CRDP, Statistics Canada carries out a series of consistency checks to assess the quality of the data. Following consultations with the CRDP to resolve any inconsistencies, a series of standard tabulations is prepared.

DATA QUALITY

Detailed tabulations on divorce have been available since 1969, and these have been presented in annual reports since 1972. Divorce counts in this publication represent «decrees absolute» and do not include any other form of marital dissolution (e.g., separation). To some extent, the number of divorce decrees granted in any one year depends on such factors as the number of petitions or applications filed, the

Les statistiques de l'état civil se fondent sur des estimations démographiques corrigées pour mieux refléter la population du Canada; ces estimations sont obtenues par un rajustement à la hausse pour tenir compte de sous-dénombrement net du recensement et des résidents non permanent. La date de référence de ces estimations annuelles est le 1^{er} juillet.

Les estimations démographiques utilisées pour calculer les taux publiés ici figurent aux annexes 1 à 4. La source des estimations démographiques est la publication de Statistique Canada, Statistiques démographiques annuelles, 2003 (n° 91-213-XPB au catalogue) diffusée en mars 2004 par la Division de la démographie. Comme la Division de la démographie révisé fréquemment les estimations démographiques, celles qui sont présentées ici pourraient différer de celles publiées ailleurs.

TRAITEMENT DES DONNÉES

Après la finalisation d'un processus de divorce dans chaque province ou territoire, le tribunal concerné transmet les renseignements au BEAD pour saisie dans la base de données centrale.

Lors de la réception du fichier de données annuel envoyé par le Bureau central d'enregistrement des divorces, Statistique Canada exerce des contrôles de cohérence afin d'évaluer la qualité des données. Après consultation du BEAD pour régler les incohérences relevées, Statistique Canada prépare une série de totalisations normalisées.

QUALITÉ DES DONNÉES

Statistique Canada produit des totalisations détaillées sur les divorces depuis 1969 et ils ont été présentés dans des rapports annuels à partir de 1972. Les nombres de divorces publiés ici correspondent au « nombre absolu de jugements » et n'incluent aucune autre forme de dissolution du mariage (p.ex., la séparation). Dans une certaine mesure, le nombre de jugements de divorce rendus une année number of centres hearing divorce petitions, and the time interval necessary for a petition to end in a final decree. Variations could be appreciable at a provincial or territorial level. This aspect should be taken into account when making comparisons between jurisdictions, or within jurisdictions over time.

Divorce rates do not necessarily provide an accurate index of marital dissolution, since they are based on unions that have been legally contracted. Common-law relationships comprise a significant proportion of unions in Canada, which may vary from one province or territory to another. Persons in common-law relationships are not at risk for divorce, since no legal procedure is required to dissolve such unions. Caution is advised when making cross-cultural comparisons, as consensual unions may represent a large proportion of all unions in some communities.

Coverage and completeness

Because of the obligatory legal requirements to register divorce decrees in all provinces and territories, the level of coverage and data quality of divorce statistics are high. Small regional differences in coverage may exist, however, due mainly to registrations received beyond the cutoff date for data compilation, but the overall effect of these on the statistical measures and tabulations is small.

The reporting completeness of core statistical items varies with the item, the reporting province or territory, and the year. Most data elements that comprise the standard tabulations produced by Statistics Canada have a high level of completeness.

Data relating to child custody and dependents, are not complete, however, because court offices do not always provide the required data elements; furthermore, child custody arrangements are not always recorded on the divorce registration form if custodial arrangements were not pursuant to a court order (e.g. where the parties reached a custody decision beforehand and the court did not have to adjudicate). Consequently, divorce registration data underestimate the total number of custody orders as well as the total number of dependents affected by divorce.

particulière dépend de facteurs comme le nombre de requêtes en divorce présentées, le nombre de centres où sont entendues les requêtes en divorce et l'intervalle nécessaire pour qu'une requête en divorce aboutisse à un jugement final. Les variations pourraient être considérables tant à l'échelle provinciale que territoriale, d'où l'importance de tenir compte de cet aspect lors de comparaisons entre province ou territoire ou de comparaisons chronologiques au sein d'une province ou d'un territoire.

Les taux de divortialité ne sont pas nécessairement un indice exact de la dissolution des unions, puisqu'on les calcule en se fondant sur les unions contractées légalement. Or, au Canada, les unions de fait représentent une part importante de l'ensemble des unions, quoique cette proportion varie d'une province ou d'un territoire à l'autre. Toutefois, les conjoints de fait ne courent pas le risque de divorcer, puisqu'aucune action légale n'est nécessaire pour dissoudre la relation. Il est donc conseillé d'interpréter avec prudence les comparaisons entre diverses cultures, puisque l'union de fait peut représenter une forte proportion de l'ensemble des unions dans certaines collectivités.

Couverture et complétude des données

Comme la loi exige l'enregistrement des jugements de divorces prononcés dans chaque province et territoire, le taux de couverture et la qualité des données sur le divorce sont élevés. Toutefois, on pourrait observer de faibles variations de couverture d'une région à l'autre, dues principalement à la transmission tardive d'enregistrements après la date limite pour le dépouillement des données. Toutefois, l'effet global de ces variations sur les mesures statistiques et les totalisations est minime.

La complétude de la déclaration des éléments statistiques essentiels varie selon l'élément, la province ou le territoire de déclaration, et l'année. Le niveau de complétude est élevé pour la plupart des données élémentaires comprises dans les totalisations types de Statistique Canada.

Les renseignements sur la garde des enfants et sur les personnes à charge ne sont toutefois pas complets, parce que les bureaux des tribunaux ne fournissent pas toujours les éléments de données nécessaires; de surcroît, les dispositions concernant la garde des enfants ne sont pas toujours inscrites sur le formulaire d'enregistrement du divorce si elles n'ont pas été prises à la suite d'une ordonnance du tribunal (p.ex., si les parties se sont entendues avant le jugement au sujet de la garde des enfants et le tribunal n'a pas dû rendre un jugement). En conséquence, les données sur l'enregistrement des divorces mène à une sous-estimation du nombre total d'ordonnances de garde et du nombre total de personnes à charge touchés par un divorce.

¹ Avant 2000, il n'existait pas de tribunal de divorce dans la partie des Territoires du Nord-Ouest qui est devenue le Nunavut le 1^{er} avril 1999.

² The 30 year total divorce rate (TDR-30) represents the proportion of married couples who are expected to divorce before their 30th wedding anniversary. For example, a TDR-30 of 376 per 1,000 marriages for Canada in 2002 indicates that 37.6% of marriages are expected to end in divorce before the 30th year of marriage (if the duration-specific divorce rates calculated for 2002 remain stable).

² L'indice synthétique de divortialité de 30 ans (ISD-30) correspond à la proportion de couples mariés qui, en principe, divorceront avant leur 30^e anniversaire de mariage. Par exemple, un ISD-30 de 376 pour 1 000 mariages au Canada en 2002 indique que 37,6 % des mariages se solderont par un divorce avant le 30^e anniversaire (si les taux de divortialité par durée de mariage calculés pour 2002 continuent de prévaloir).

³ Northwest Territories and Nunavut are combined to calculate the 30 year total divorce rate (TDR-30) because marriage and divorce data are not available for these territories separately for the 30 year period required for the calculation of the total divorce rate.

¹ Avant 2000, il n'existait pas de tribunal de divorce dans la partie des Territoires du Nord-Ouest qui est devenue le Nunavut le 1^{er} avril 1999.

² The 30 year total divorce rate (TDR-30) represents the proportion of married couples who are expected to divorce before their 30th wedding anniversary. For example, a TDR-30 of 376 per 1,000 marriages for Canada in 2002 indicates that 37.6% of marriages are expected to end in divorce before the 30th year of marriage (if the duration-specific divorce rates calculated for 2002 remain stable).

² L'indice synthétique de divortialité de 30 ans (ISD-30) correspond à la proportion de couples mariés qui, en principe, divorceront avant leur 30^e anniversaire de mariage. Par exemple, un ISD-30 de 376 pour 1 000 mariages au Canada en 2002 indique que 37,6 % des mariages se solderont par un divorce avant le 30^e anniversaire (si les taux de divortialité par durée de mariage calculés pour 2002 continuent de prévaloir).

³ Northwest Territories and Nunavut are combined to calculate the 30 year total divorce rate (TDR-30) because marriage and divorce data are not available for these territories separately for the 30 year period required for the calculation of the total divorce rate.

¹ Rates are calculated using population estimates that have been adjusted for net census undercoverage and include non-permanent residents. See Methodology section. Some of the rates should be interpreted with caution, particularly those for the territories, given the small numbers involved.

¹ Rates are calculated using population estimates that have been adjusted for net census undercoverage and include non-permanent residents. See Methodology section. Some of the rates should be interpreted with caution, particularly those for the territories, given the small numbers involved.

² Prior to 2000, there was no divorce court in the part of the Northwest Territories which became Nunavut on April 1, 1999.

¹ Rates are calculated using population estimates that have been adjusted for net census undercoverage and include non-permanent residents. See Methodology section. Some of the rates should be interpreted with caution, particularly those for the territories, given the small numbers involved.

¹ Le calcul des taux est fondé sur des estimations de la population qui ont été réajustées pour tenir compte du sous-dénombrement net du recensement et qui comprennent les résidents non permanents. Voir la section Méthodologie. On doit interpréter avec prudence certains des taux, particulièrement ceux des territoires, en égard aux faibles nombres sur lesquels ils reposent.

² Unknown ages are allocated proportionately by province and age group.

¹ Rates are calculated using population estimates that have been adjusted for net census undercoverage and include non-permanent residents. See Methodology section. Some of the rates should be interpreted with caution, particularly those for the territories, given the small numbers involved.

¹ Le calcul des taux est fondé sur des estimations de la population qui ont été réajustées pour tenir compte du sous-dénombrement net du recensement et qui comprennent les résidents non permanents. Voir la section Méthodologie. On doit interpréter avec prudence certains des taux, particulièrement ceux des territoires, en égard aux faibles nombres sur lesquels ils reposent.

² Unknown ages are allocated proportionately by province and age group.

² Les âges inconnus sont attribués proportionnellement par province et par groupe d'âge.

³ Prior to 2000, there was no divorce court in the part of the Northwest Territories which became Nunavut on April 1, 1999.

³ Avant 2000, il n'existait pas de tribunal de divorce dans la partie des Territoires du Nord-Ouest qui est devenue le Nunavut le 1^{er} avril 1999.

² The 30 year total divorce rate (TDR-30) represents the proportion of married couples who are expected to divorce before their 30th wedding anniversary. For example, a TDR-30 of 376 per 1,000 marriages for Canada in 2000 indicates that 37.6% of marriages are expected to end in divorce before the 30th year of marriage (if the duration-specific divorce rates calculated for 2000 remain stable).

² L'indice synthétique de divortialité de 30 ans (ISD-30) correspond à la proportion de couples mariés qui, en principe, divorceront avant leur 30^e anniversaire de mariage. Par exemple, un ISD-30 de 376 pour 1 000 mariages au Canada en 2000 indique que 37,6 % des mariages se solderont par un divorce avant le 30^e anniversaire (si les taux de divortialité par durée de mariage calculés pour 2000 continuent de prévaloir).

³ The 50 year total divorce rate (TDR-50) represents the proportion of married couples who are expected to divorce before their 50th wedding anniversary. For example, a TDR-50 of 411 per 1,000 marriages for Canada in 2000 indicates that 41.1% of marriages are expected to end in divorce before the 50th year of marriage (if the duration-specific divorce rates for 2000 remain stable).

³ L'indice synthétique de divortialité de 50 ans (ISD-50) correspond à la proportion de couples mariés qui, en principe, divorceront avant leur 50^e anniversaire de mariage. Par exemple, un ISD-50 de 411 pour 1 000 mariages au Canada en 2000 indique que 41,1 % des mariages se solderont par un divorce avant le 50^e anniversaire (si les taux de divortialité par durée de mariage calculés pour 2000 continuent de prévaloir).

² The 30 year total divorce rate (TDR-30) represents the proportion of married couples who are expected to divorce before their 30th wedding anniversary. For example, a TDR-30 of 376 per 1,000 marriages for Canada in 2002 indicates that 37.6% of marriages are expected to end in divorce before the 30th year of marriage (if the duration-specific divorce rates calculated for 2002 remain stable).

² L'indice synthétique de divortialité de 30 ans (ISD-30) correspond à la proportion de couples mariés qui, en principe, divorceront avant leur 30^e anniversaire de mariage. Par exemple, un ISD-30 de 376 pour 1 000 mariages au Canada en 2002 indique que 37,6 % des mariages se solderont par un divorce avant le 30^e anniversaire (si les taux de divortialité par durée de mariage calculés pour 2002 continuent de prévaloir).

³ The 50 year total divorce rate (TDR-50) represents the proportion of married couples who are expected to divorce before their 50th wedding anniversary. For example, a TDR-50 of 410 per 1,000 marriages for Canada in 2002 indicates that 41.0% of marriages are expected to end in divorce before the 50th year of marriage (if the duration-specific divorce rates for 2002 remain stable).

³ L'indice synthétique de divortialité de 50 ans (ISD-50) correspond à la proportion de couples mariés qui, en principe, divorceront avant leur 50^e anniversaire de mariage. Par exemple, un ISD-50 de 410 pour 1 000 mariages au Canada en 2002 indique que 41,0 % des mariages se solderont par un divorce avant le 50^e anniversaire (si les taux de divortialité par durée de mariage calculés pour 2002 continuent de prévaloir).

¹ Avant 2000, il n'existait pas de tribunal de divorce dans la partie des Territoires du Nord-Ouest qui est devenue le Nunavut le 1^{er} avril 1999.

² The total number of reasons exceeds the number of divorces because some divorces involved more than one reason for divorce.

² Ce nombre total de faits est plus grands que le nombre total de divorces parce que dans certains divorces on a cité plus d'un fait.

³ Ce total ne rend compte que les causes de la rupture du mariage pour les divorces accordés en vertu de la Loi sur le divorce de 1985. Par conséquent, le total ne tient pas compte de 15 divorces accordés en 2001 et de 16 autres divorces accordés en 2002, tous en vertu de la Loi sur le divorce de 1968, et à l'appui desquels les motifs présentés variaient considérablement au moment où ces demandes en divorce ont été déposées.

Note of Appreciation

Canada owes the success of its statistical system to a long-standing cooperation involving Statistics Canada, the citizens of Canada, its businesses, governments and other institutions. Accurate and timely statistical information could not be produced without their continued cooperation and goodwill.

The cooperation of the Department of Justice Canada who supplies the data in this report to Statistics Canada is gratefully acknowledged.

Note de reconnaissance

Le succès du système statistique du Canada repose sur un partenariat bien établi entre Statistique Canada et la population, les entreprises, les administrations canadiennes et les autres organismes. Sans cette collaboration et cette bonne volonté, il serait impossible de produire des statistiques précises et actuelles.

Statistique Canada tient à manifester sa gratitude envers le ministère de la Justice Canada qui nous a fourni les données qui apparaissent dans ce rapport.

INTRODUCTION

History

Since 1969, data relating to divorce have been provided to Statistics Canada by the Central Registry of Divorce Proceedings of the Department of Justice Canada. The target universe for divorce statistics consists of all divorces processed in Canada.

Pursuant to the Divorce Act of 1968, a Central Registry of Divorce Proceedings (CRDP) was established within the Department of Justice Canada. The CRDP was originally set up as a mechanism to detect the existence of two divorce applications involving the same couple in different provincial and territorial jurisdictions. Duplication of divorce applications generally occurs in three situations: (1) a person filed an earlier divorce application and failed to proceed with it or filed a discontinuance; (2) the parties each desire carriage of the action and each files a divorce application; or (3) the parties have lost touch with each other, and one party is unaware that the other party has filed for or already obtained a divorce judgment. The CRDP assembles, sorts, and searches out the records of applications for divorce filed anywhere in Canada in order to identify such cases.

Purpose

Divorce statistics are important for both administrative and demographic reasons. For example, government departments and embassies require confirmation of the marital status of a person for pension and immigration purposes. Divorce data are important evidence for litigation involving fatal accidents, and for the administration of social programs. Divorce statistics are also used in special studies that analyze divorce as a social phenomenon, for the analysis of fertility data, and for the development of household, family and population estimates and projections.

The data elements in the divorce file include the following information: age of the husband and wife at the time of the marriage, date of husband's and wife's birth, marital status just prior to marriage, province and territory of divorce decree, age of husband and wife at time of divorce, duration of marriage, grounds for divorce, person making the divorce application, reasons for marriage breakdown, number of dependents, and child custody arrangements.

INTRODUCTION

Historique

Depuis 1969, les données sur le divorce sont fournies à Statistique Canada par le Bureau d'enregistrement des actions en divorce du ministère de la Justice du Canada. L'univers visé par la statistique du divorce est l'ensemble des cas de divorce traités au Canada.

Conformément à la Loi sur le divorce de 1968, on a créé un Bureau d'enregistrement des actions en divorce (BEAD) au sein du ministère de la Justice du Canada. Le BEAD avait été établi à l'origine comme mécanisme d'information destiné à détecter l'enregistrement de deux demandes de divorce concernant le même mariage dans des provinces ou territoires différents. Les demandes de divorce présentées en double se produisent généralement en trois circonstances : 1) une personne a déjà introduit une action en divorce dans le passé mais n'a pas donné suite à son action ou s'est désistée; 2) les deux parties désirent que l'action soit poursuivie et chacune présente une demande de divorce; ou 3) les parties se sont perdues de vue et une des parties ignore que l'autre a fait une demande de divorce ou a obtenu le divorce. Le BEAD réunit, trie et consulte les dossiers de demandes en divorce déposées n'importe où au Canada afin de découvrir ces cas.

Objectifs

La statistique du divorce est essentielle pour des raisons administratives et démographiques. Par exemple, les ministères et les ambassades ont besoin d'avoir confirmation de l'état matrimonial d'une personne à des fins d'immigration et de pension. Les données sur le divorce sont des preuves importantes pour les litiges concernant les accidents mortels ou pour l'administration des programmes sociaux. La statistique du divorce sert également aux études spéciales ayant pour objet l'analyse du divorce comme phénomène social, à l'analyse des données sur la fécondité et, enfin, à l'élaboration des estimations et des projections relatives aux ménages, à la famille et à la population.

Les éléments d'information du dossier de divorce comprennent l'âge de l'époux et de l'épouse au mariage, la date de naissance de l'époux et de l'épouse, l'état matrimonial au moment précédant le mariage, la province ou le territoire du jugement de divorce, l'âge de l'époux et de l'épouse au moment du divorce, la durée du mariage, les motifs de divorce, la personne qui exerce l'action en divorce, les raisons de la rupture du mariage, le nombre de personnes à charge, les ententes relatives à la garde des enfants.

METHODOLOGY

Data collection

Information relating to divorces registered in each of the provinces and territories of Canada is collected by the CRDP of the Department of Justice Canada. The impetus for a central divorce registry arose from the need to eliminate duplicate registrations of divorce proceedings. At present, intraprovincial or intraterritorial duplications arise in approximately 5% of all applications.

Each year, the CRDP sends a machine-readable file on completed divorce cases to the Health Statistics Division at Statistics Canada. Statistics Canada processes the data to produce a set of standard tabulations.

Note that completed divorces (divorces granted) in a given year do not necessarily relate to legal actions filed in the same year.

Population counts used in calculating rates

In 1993, Statistics Canada introduced a new series of population estimates that include non-permanent residents and adjustments for net census undercoverage. The series for provinces and territories comprises annual population estimates by age (single years), sex, and marital status, beginning with 1971. Non-permanent residents are persons claiming refugee status, persons holding a student authorization, persons holding an employment authorization, persons holding a minister's permit, and all non-Canadian-born dependents of the above individuals. Net census undercoverage is the difference between census undercoverage and census overcoverage. The former refers to persons not enumerated in the census but who were part of the census universe; the latter refers to persons either enumerated more than once or enumerated but not part of the census universe.

Divorce rates in this publication are based on the latest population estimates available at the time of derivation. Because population estimates are frequently revised, the rates found here may differ slightly from divorce rates published elsewhere. Population estimates for 2003 are provided in Appendices 1 and 2.

MÉTHODOLOGIE

Collecte des données

Des renseignements relatifs aux cas de divorce enregistrés dans les provinces et les territoires du Canada sont réunis par le BEAD du ministère de la Justice du Canada. La nécessité d'éliminer l'enregistrement en double des actions en divorce a motivé la création d'un bureau central d'enregistrement des divorces. À l'heure actuelle, les demandes en divorce en double à l'intérieur de la même province ou du même territoire se produisent dans environ 5 % des cas.

Tous les ans, le BEAD envoie un fichier de données lisible par machine sur les cas de divorce prononcés à la Division de la statistique de la santé de Statistique Canada. Statistique Canada traite alors les données pour produire une série de totalisations normalisées.

Il faut prendre note que les divorces prononcés (divorces rendus) au cours d'une année donnée ne correspondent pas nécessairement aux actions en divorce intentées cette même année.

Chiffres de population servant au calcul des taux

En 1993, Statistique Canada a commencé à utiliser une nouvelle série d'estimations de la population qui tient compte des résidents non permanents et des rajustements réalisés pour le sous-dénombrement net du recensement. Les séries pour les provinces et les territoires comprennent les estimations annuelles de la population selon l'âge (âge pris an par an), le sexe et l'état matrimonial, à partir de 1971. Les résidents non permanents sont des personnes qui revendiquent le statut de réfugié, des titulaires d'un permis de séjour pour étudiant, des titulaires d'un permis de travail, des détenteurs d'un permis ministériel et toute personne à charge née à l'étranger des personnes susmentionnées. Le sous-dénombrement net du recensement correspond à la différence entre le sous-dénombrement du recensement et le surdénombrement du recensement. Le premier terme englobe les personnes non recensées faisant partie de l'univers du recensement alors que le second fait référence aux personnes qui sont dénombrées plus d'une fois ou qui sont dénombrées alors qu'elles ne font pas partie de l'univers du recensement.

Les taux de divortialité de la présente publication sont fondés sur les plus récentes estimations de la population disponibles au moment des calculs. Puisque ces estimations sont fréquemment mises à jour, les taux dont il est ici question diffèrent peut-être légèrement des taux de divortialité parus dans d'autres publications. Les annexes 1 et 2 présentent les estimations de la population pour 2003.

Change in grounds for divorce over time

Under the Divorce Act of 1985, the grounds for divorce changed. Marriage breakdown became the only grounds for divorce, and the evidence for marriage breakdown was reduced to separation for at least one year, adultery, physical cruelty, or mental cruelty.

In cases where couples file a joint application for divorce, the only valid category is separation for at least one year. The other three reasons for divorce—adultery, physical cruelty, and mental cruelty—are only legally admissible when one spouse initiates a divorce proceeding against the other.

Changement des motifs de divorce dans le temps

Avec l'entrée en vigueur de la Loi sur le divorce de 1985, les motifs de divorce ont changé. La rupture du mariage est devenu le seul motif de divorce et les preuves de la rupture ont été réduites aux suivantes : séparation depuis au moins un an, adultère, cruauté physique ou cruauté mentale.

Dans les cas où les conjoints font une demande commune de divorce, la seule catégorie valide est la séparation pendant au moins un an. Les trois autres raisons—adultère, cruauté physique et cruauté mentale—ne sont admissibles légalement que si un des conjoints entame une action en divorce contre l'autre.

GLOSSARY

Applicant

In the Divorce Act of 1985, the applicant is the person or persons (husband, wife, or husband and wife jointly) who applied for a divorce. Joint application refers to a situation in which both spouses collaborate in the submission of an application. (See also Petitioner and Respondent.)

Divorce

The legal dissolution of a legal marriage. Divorce data are presented here on the basis of the province or territory where the decree was granted. There were no same-sex divorces in Canada in 2003.

Divorce rates

- Crude divorce rate: The number of divorces per 100,000 population
- Duration-specific divorce rate: The divorce rate in a particular year for a specific marriage cohort. For example, the 2003 divorce rate for persons married in 2003 (i.e. the 2003 marriage cohort) is calculated by dividing the number of 2003 divorces granted to persons married in 2003 by the number of marriages performed in 2003. When multiplied by 1,000, the result is expressed as the number of 2003 divorces per 1,000 2003 marriages. (This rate incorporates a bias of unknown magnitude due to the death of some spouses during the period as well as in- and out-migration, that is, persons moving from one province or territory to another, or to or from Canada. Divorce records with an unknown year of marriage were distributed on the basis of divorces with known years of marriage.)

The processing of 2003 marriage data was not completed before the preparation of these tables. Estimates of the number of marriages in 2003 were used.

- Total divorce rate (TDR): The sum of duration-specific divorce rates. In this publication, the summation goes back to 50 years, that is, it accumulates divorce rates pertaining to marriages having taken place between 1954 and 2003. This measure is expressed as the proportion of married couples who are expected to divorce before their 50th anniversary, given the duration-specific divorce rates for 2003. For example, the 2003 Quebec TDR of 537 per 1,000 marriages indicates that 53.7% of marriages performed in Quebec in 2003 are expected to end in divorce before the 50th anniversary, if the conditions observed in 2003 remain stable.

GLOSSAIRE

Demandant

Dans la Loi sur le divorce de 1985, le demandant est la ou les personnes (époux, épouse ou les deux conjoints) qui exerce une action en divorce. Les demandes communes font référence à la situation où les deux conjoints présentent ensemble la demande. (Voir également Requérant et répondant.)

Divorce

Dissolution légale d'un mariage légitime. Les données sur le divorce présentées ici se fondent sur la province ou sur le territoire où le jugement a été rendu. En 2003, les divorces de personnes de même sexe n'existaient pas au Canada.

Taux de divortialité

- Taux brut de divortialité : Nombre de divorces pour 100 000 habitants.
- Taux de divortialité par durée de mariage : Taux de divortialité d'une année particulière pour une cohorte particulière de mariage. Par exemple, on calcule le taux de divortialité en 2003 pour les personnes qui se sont mariées en 2003 (c.-à-d. la cohorte des mariages de 2003) en divisant le nombre de divorces accordés en 2003 aux personnes que se sont mariées en 2003 par le nombre de mariages célébrés en 2003. Si on multiplie le résultat par 1 000, on obtient le nombre de divorces en 2003 pour 1 000 mariages de 2003. (Ce taux est entaché d'un biais de grandeur inconnue qui résulte du décès de certains conjoints durant la période, ainsi que de l'immigration et de l'émigration [c.-à-d. les personnes qui immigreront d'une province ou d'un territoire à un autre ou qui immigreront au Canada ou en émigreront]. Les cas de divorce pour lesquels on ne connaît pas le nombre d'années de mariage sont ventilés en se fondant sur la répartition des divorces pour lesquels on connaît la durée du mariage.)

Le traitement des données sur les mariages de 2003 n'était pas fini avant la préparation de ces tableaux. Des estimations du nombre de mariages en 2003 sont utilisées.

- Indice synthétique de divortialité (ISD) : Somme des taux de divortialité par durée de mariage. Dans cette publication, la somme remonte 50 ans en arrière; autrement dit, elle correspond à la somme des taux de divortialité se rapportant aux mariages qui ont eu lieu de 1954 à 2003. On exprime cette mesure comme étant la proportion de couples mariés qui, en principe, divorceront avant leur 50^e anniversaire de mariage, compte tenu des taux de divortialité par durée de mariage calculés pour 2003. Par exemple, le ISD en 2003 au Québec de 537 pour 1 000 mariages indique que 53,7 % des mariages célébrés au Québec en 2003 se solderont par un divorce avant le 50^e anniversaire de mariage si les conditions observées en 2003 se maintiennent.

- Marital divorce rate by age and sex: Number of divorces per 1,000 legally married men or women of the same age.

Duration of marriage

The duration of marriage is the amount of time elapsed (in years) between the marriage date (day, month and year) and the date the divorce decree was granted.

Marital status just prior to marriage

Used in the context of divorce statistics, marital status just prior to marriage is the marital status of the individual immediately before the marriage to which the divorce decree relates. Persons entering into a marriage may be single (never married), divorced or widowed.

Marriage

Prior to 2003, marriage was defined as the legal conjugal union of two persons of the opposite sex. Since 2003, the definition of marriage has been changed in some provinces and territories to include the legal conjugal union of two persons of the same sex. Common-law relationships are excluded.

- Opposite-sex marriage: The legal conjugal union of two persons of the opposite sex. All marriages occurring in Canada prior to 2003 were opposite-sex marriages.
- Same-sex marriage: The legal conjugal union of two persons of the same sex, i.e. two men or two women. There were no same-sex marriages in Canada prior to 2003.

The marriage data in this publication are presented by place of occurrence, that is, the province or territory where the marriage took place.

Mean age at divorce (or marriage)

The mean (average) age at divorce (or marriage) in a province or territory was calculated by adding a half year to a spouse's age at his or her last birthday and multiplying the result by the number of divorces (or marriages) of persons having that spouse's age, summing those values, and then dividing the sum by the total number of divorces (or marriages) in that jurisdiction.

Median

The median is another measure of central tendency. It is the middle value in a set of ordered numbers (e.g. divorcing wives' ages ranked from youngest to oldest). In the case of an even number of observations, the median is the average of the two middle values.

- Taux de divortialité conjugale par âge et par sexe : Nombre de divorces pour 1 000 hommes ou femmes mariés légalement du même âge.

Durée du mariage

La durée du mariage correspond au temps qui s'est écoulé (en années) entre la date du mariage (jour, mois, année) et la date où le jugement de divorce a été prononcé.

État matrimonial au moment précédant le mariage

Utilisée dans le contexte des statistiques sur le divorce, l'état matrimonial au moment précédant le mariage fait référence à l'état matrimonial de la personne immédiatement avant le mariage auquel se rapporte le jugement de divorce. Au moment du mariage, la personne peut être célibataire (jamais mariée), veuve ou divorcée.

Mariage

Avant 2003, le mariage correspondait à l'union conjugale légale de deux personnes de sexe opposé. Depuis 2003, la définition du mariage a été modifiée dans quelques provinces et territoires pour inclure l'union conjugale légale de deux personnes de même sexe. Les unions de fait sont exclues.

- Mariage de personnes de sexe opposé : Union conjugale légale de deux personnes de sexe opposé. Avant 2003, tous les mariages célébrés au Canada étaient des mariages de personnes de sexe opposé.
- Mariage de personnes de même sexe : Union conjugale légale de deux personnes de même sexe, c.-à-d. deux hommes ou deux femmes. Avant 2003, les mariages de personnes de même sexe n'existaient pas au Canada.

Dans la présente publication, les données sur le mariage sont présentées selon le lieu de l'événement, autrement dit, la province ou le territoire où a eu lieu le mariage.

Âge moyen au divorce (ou au mariage)

Pour calculer l'âge moyen au divorce (ou au mariage) dans une province ou un territoire donné, on ajoute une demi-année à l'âge de l'époux au moment du dernier anniversaire et on multiplie le résultat par le nombre de divorces (ou mariages) de personnes ayant l'âge de l'époux, puis on additionne les produits obtenus et on divise la somme par le nombre total de divorces (ou mariages) enregistrés dans la province ou le territoire concerné.

Médiane

La médiane est une autre mesure de tendance centrale. Elle est la valeur centrale d'un ensemble ordonné de valeurs (p.ex., les âges des épouses divorcées classés par ordre croissant). Si le nombre de valeurs est pair, la médiane correspond à la moyenne arithmétique des deux valeurs centrales.

Petitioner and respondent

In the Divorce Act of 1968 (which preceded the Divorce Act of 1985), the petitioner was the person (husband or wife) who petitioned Parliament for a divorce. The petitioner's spouse was the respondent. (See also Applicant.)

Population

Persons whose usual place of residence is somewhere in Canada, including Canadian government employees stationed abroad and their families, members of the Canadian Armed Forces stationed abroad and their families, crews of Canadian merchant vessels, and non-permanent residents of Canada.

Adjusted population estimates are used in vital statistics to better reflect Canada's population; these estimates include upward adjustments for net census undercoverage and non-permanent residents. The reference date for these annual estimates is July 1.

The population estimates used to calculate the rates in this publication can be found in Appendices 1 and 2. The source of these population estimates is the Statistics Canada publication, Annual Demographic Statistics, 2004 (catalogue no. 91-213-XPB), to be released by Demography Division in March 2005. Because population estimates are frequently revised by Demography Division, those shown here may differ from other published estimates.

DATA PROCESSING

In each province and territory, after a divorce process has been finalized, the court granting the decree sends information to the CRDP for entry into its central database.

Requérant et répondant

Dans la Loi sur le divorce de 1968 (qui a précédé la Loi sur le divorce de 1985), le requérant était la personne (époux ou épouse) qui portait sa demande en divorce devant le Parlement. Le conjoint du requérant était le répondant. (Voir aussi Demandant.)

Population

Personnes dont le lieu de résidence se situe au Canada, y compris les fonctionnaires canadiens en poste à l'étranger et les membres de leurs familles, les membres des Forces canadiennes stationnés à l'étranger et les membres de leurs familles, les équipages des navires marchands canadiens et les résidents non permanents du Canada.

Les statistiques de l'état civil se fondent sur des estimations démographiques corrigées pour mieux refléter la population du Canada; ces estimations sont obtenues par un rajustement à la hausse pour tenir compte de sous-dénombrement net du recensement et des résidents non permanent. La date de référence de ces estimations annuelles est le 1^{er} juillet.

Les estimations démographiques utilisées pour calculer les taux publiés ici figurent aux annexes 1 et 2. La source des estimations démographiques est la publication de Statistique Canada, Statistiques démographiques annuelles, 2004 (n° 91-213-XPB au catalogue) être diffusée en mars 2005 par la Division de la démographie. Comme la Division de la démographie révisé fréquemment les estimations démographiques, celles qui sont présentées ici pourraient différer de celles publiées ailleurs.

TRAITEMENT DES DONNÉES

Après la finalisation d'un processus de divorce dans chaque province ou territoire, le tribunal concerné transmet les renseignements au BEAD pour saisie dans la base de données centrale.

Upon receipt of an annual data file from the CRDP, Statistics Canada carries out a series of consistency checks to assess the quality of the data. Following consultations with the CRDP to resolve any inconsistencies, a series of standard tabulations is prepared.

DATA QUALITY

Detailed tabulations on divorce have been available since 1969, and these have been presented in annual reports since 1972. Divorce counts in this publication represent «decrees absolute» and do not include any other form of marital dissolution (e.g., separation). To some extent, the number of divorce decrees granted in any one year depends on such factors as the number of petitions or applications filed, the number of centres hearing divorce petitions, and the time interval necessary for a petition to end in a final decree. Variations could be appreciable at a provincial or territorial level. This aspect should be taken into account when making comparisons between jurisdictions, or within jurisdictions over time.

Divorce rates do not necessarily provide an accurate index of marital dissolution, since they are based on unions that have been legally contracted. Common-law relationships comprise a significant proportion of unions in Canada, which may vary from one province or territory to another. Persons in common-law relationships are not at risk for divorce, since no legal procedure is required to dissolve such unions. Caution is advised when making cross-cultural comparisons, as consensual unions may represent a large proportion of all unions in some communities.

Coverage and completeness

Because of the obligatory legal requirements to register divorce decrees in all provinces and territories, the level of coverage and data quality of divorce statistics are high. Small regional differences in coverage may exist, however, due mainly to registrations received beyond the cutoff date for data compilation, but the overall effect of these on the statistical measures and tabulations is small.

The reporting completeness of core statistical items varies with the item, the reporting province or territory, and the year. Most data elements that comprise the standard tabulations produced by Statistics Canada have a high level of completeness.

Data relating to child custody and dependents, are not complete, however, because court offices do not always provide the required data elements; furthermore, child custody arrangements are not always recorded on the divorce registration form if custodial arrangements were not pursuant

Lors de la réception du fichier de données annuel envoyé par le Bureau central d'enregistrement des divorces, Statistique Canada exerce des contrôles de cohérence afin d'évaluer la qualité des données. Après consultation du BEAD pour régler les incohérences relevées, Statistique Canada prépare une série de totalisations normalisées.

QUALITÉ DES DONNÉES

Statistique Canada produit des totalisations détaillées sur les divorces depuis 1969 et ils ont été présentés dans des rapports annuels à partir de 1972. Les nombres de divorces publiés ici correspondent au « nombre absolu de jugements » et n'incluent aucune autre forme de dissolution du mariage (p.ex., la séparation). Dans une certaine mesure, le nombre de jugements de divorce rendus une année particulière dépend de facteurs comme le nombre de requêtes en divorce présentées, le nombre de centres où sont entendues les requêtes en divorce et l'intervalle nécessaire pour qu'une requête en divorce aboutisse à un jugement final. Les variations pourraient être considérables tant à l'échelle provinciale que territoriale, d'où l'importance de tenir compte de cet aspect lors de comparaisons entre province ou territoire ou de comparaisons chronologiques au sein d'une province ou d'un territoire.

Les taux de divortialité ne sont pas nécessairement un indice exact de la dissolution des unions, puisqu'on les calcule en se fondant sur les unions contractées légalement. Or, au Canada, les unions de fait représentent une part importante de l'ensemble des unions, quoique cette proportion varie d'une province ou d'un territoire à l'autre. Toutefois, les conjoints de fait ne courent pas le risque de divorcer, puisqu'aucune action légale n'est nécessaire pour dissoudre la relation. Il est donc conseillé d'interpréter avec prudence les comparaisons entre diverses cultures, puisque l'union de fait peut représenter une forte proportion de l'ensemble des unions dans certaines collectivités.

Couverture et complétude des données

Comme la loi exige l'enregistrement des jugements de divorces prononcés dans chaque province et territoire, le taux de couverture et la qualité des données sur le divorce sont élevés. Toutefois, on pourrait observer de faibles variations de couverture d'une région à l'autre, dues principalement à la transmission tardive d'enregistrements après la date limite pour le dépouillement des données. Toutefois, l'effet global de ces variations sur les mesures statistiques et les totalisations est minime.

La complétude de la déclaration des éléments statistiques essentiels varie selon l'élément, la province ou le territoire de déclaration, et l'année. Le niveau de complétude est élevé pour la plupart des données élémentaires comprises dans les totalisations types de Statistique Canada.

Les renseignements sur la garde des enfants et sur les personnes à charge ne sont toutefois pas complets, parce que les bureaux des tribunaux ne fournissent pas toujours les éléments de données nécessaires; de surcroît, les dispositions concernant la garde des enfants ne sont pas to a court order (e.g. where the parties reached a custody decision beforehand and the court did not have to adjudicate). Consequently, divorce registration data underestimate the total number of custody orders as well as the total number of dependents affected by divorce.

toujours inscrites sur le formulaire d'enregistrement du divorce si elles n'ont pas été prises à la suite d'une ordonnance du tribunal (p.ex., si les parties se sont entendues avant le jugement au sujet de la garde des enfants et le tribunal n'a pas dû rendre un jugement). En conséquence, les données sur l'enregistrement des divorces mène à une sous-estimation du nombre total d'ordonnances de garde et du nombre total de personnes à charge touchés par un divorce.

¹ Avant 2000, il n'existait pas de tribunal de divorce dans la partie des Territoires du Nord-Ouest qui est devenue le Nunavut le 1^{er} avril 1999.

² The 30 year total divorce rate (TDR-30) represents the proportion of married couples who are expected to divorce before their 30th wedding anniversary. For example, a TDR-30 of 383 per 1,000 marriages for Canada in 2003 indicates that 38.3% of marriages are expected to end in divorce before the 30th year of marriage (if the duration-specific divorce rates calculated for 2003 remain stable).

² L'indice synthétique de divortialité de 30 ans (ISD-30) correspond à la proportion de couples mariés qui, en principe, divorceront avant leur 30^e anniversaire de mariage. Par exemple, un ISD-30 de 383 pour 1 000 mariages au Canada en 2003 indique que 38,3 % des mariages se solderont par un divorce avant le 30^e anniversaire (si les taux de divortialité par durée de mariage calculés pour 2003 continuent de prévaloir).

³ Northwest Territories and Nunavut are combined to calculate the 30 year total divorce rate (TDR-30) because marriage and divorce data are not available for these territories separately for the 30-year period required for the calculation of the total divorce rate.

¹ Avant 2000, il n'existait pas de tribunal de divorce dans la partie des Territoires du Nord-Ouest qui est devenue le Nunavut le 1^{er} avril 1999.

² The 30 year total divorce rate (TDR-30) represents the proportion of married couples who are expected to divorce before their 30th wedding anniversary. For example, a TDR-30 of 383 per 1,000 marriages for Canada in 2003 indicates that 38.3% of marriages are expected to end in divorce before the 30th year of marriage (if the duration-specific divorce rates calculated for 2003 remain stable).

² L'indice synthétique de divortialité de 30 ans (ISD-30) correspond à la proportion de couples mariés qui, en principe, divorceront avant leur 30^e anniversaire de mariage. Par exemple, un ISD-30 de 383 pour 1 000 mariages au Canada en 2003 indique que 38,3 % des mariages se solderont par un divorce avant le 30^e anniversaire (si les taux de divortialité par durée de mariage calculés pour 2003 continuent de prévaloir).

³ Northwest Territories and Nunavut are combined to calculate the 30 year total divorce rate (TDR-30) because marriage and divorce data are not available for these territories separately for the 30-year period required for the calculation of the total divorce rate.

¹ Rates are calculated using population estimates that have been adjusted for net census undercoverage and include non-permanent residents. See Methodology section. Some of the rates should be interpreted with caution, particularly those for the territories, given the small numbers involved.

¹ Rates are calculated using population estimates that have been adjusted for net census undercoverage and include non-permanent residents. See Methodology section. Some of the rates should be interpreted with caution, particularly those for the territories, given the small numbers involved.

² Prior to 2000, there was no divorce court in the part of the Northwest Territories which became Nunavut on April 1, 1999.

¹ Rates are calculated using population estimates that have been adjusted for net census undercoverage and include non-permanent residents. See Methodology section. Some of the rates should be interpreted with caution, particularly those for the territories, given the small numbers involved.

² Le calcul des taux est fondé sur des estimations de la population qui ont été réajustées pour tenir compte du sous-dénombrement net du recensement et qui comprennent les résidents non permanents. Voir la section Méthodologie. On doit interpréter avec prudence certains des taux, particulièrement ceux des territoires, en égard aux faibles nombres sur lesquels ils reposent.

³ Unknown ages are allocated proportionately by province and age group.

⁴ Les âges inconnus sont attribués proportionnellement par province et par groupe d'âge.

² The 30 year total divorce rate (TDR-30) represents the proportion of married couples who are expected to divorce before their 30th wedding anniversary. For example, a TDR-30 of 383 per 1,000 marriages for Canada in 2003 indicates that 38.3% of marriages are expected to end in divorce before the 30th year of marriage (if the duration-specific divorce rates calculated for 2003 remain stable).

² L'indice synthétique de divortialité de 30 ans (ISD-30) correspond à la proportion de couples mariés qui, en principe, divorceront avant leur 30^e anniversaire de mariage. Par exemple, un ISD-30 de 383 pour 1 000 mariages au Canada en 2003 indique que 38,3 % des mariages se solderont par un divorce avant le 30^e anniversaire (si les taux de divortialité par durée de mariage calculés pour 2003 continuent de prévaloir).

³ The 50 year total divorce rate (TDR-50) represents the proportion of married couples who are expected to divorce before their 50th wedding anniversary. For example, a TDR-50 of 417 per 1,000 marriages for Canada in 2003 indicates that 41.7% of marriages are expected to end in divorce before the 50th year of marriage (if the duration-specific divorce rates for 2003 remain stable).

³ L'indice synthétique de divortialité de 50 ans (ISD-50) correspond à la proportion de couples mariés qui, en principe, divorceront avant leur 50^e anniversaire de mariage. Par exemple, un ISD-50 de 417 pour 1 000 mariages au Canada en 2003 indique que 41,7 % des mariages se solderont par un divorce avant le 50^e anniversaire (si les taux de divortialité par durée de mariage calculés pour 2003 continuent de prévaloir).

¹ Avant 2000, il n'existait pas de tribunal de divorce dans la partie des Territoires du Nord-Ouest qui est devenue le Nunavut le 1^{er} avril 1999.

² The total number of reasons exceeds the number of divorces because some divorces involved more than one reason for divorce.

² Ce nombre total de faits est plus grands que le nombre total de divorces parce que dans certains divorces on a cité plus d'un fait.

³ Ce total ne rend compte que les causes de la rupture du mariage pour les divorces accordés en vertu de la Loi sur le divorce de 1985. Par conséquent, le total ne tient pas compte de 17 divorces accordés en 2003, tous en vertu de la Loi sur le divorce de 1968, et à l'appui desquels les motifs présentés variaient considérablement au moment où ces demandes en divorce ont été déposées.
